COMIN' AT YA'

HAMPTON HIGH SCHOOL
1491 WEST QUEEN STREET
HAMPTON, VIRGINIA 23669

Comin' At Ya!

Crabbers are comin' at ya'. Comin' at ya with tradition, excellence, and vibrancy. First, explore where we're from. Year after year, Hampton has produced the best of the best athletes, the best scholars, the best teachers. Others will try to deny this, but history speaks for itself.

Hampton High School is a unique place. It's a place where a diversity of people come together as one, a place where student's demonstrate responsibility and integrity. Respect, pride and honor are feelings Hampton High students experience every day.

Hampton High School has a dazzling history. Beginning in 1896, Hampton has set the standard for other high schools. Each day that passes adds another spectacular chapter to Hampton's story. We continue the past generation's reputation for being the best. We have begun to carve a path for the future.

As you read through these pages, experience the lives of the Hampton students. The Crabber spirit sneaks into one's soul and becomes a part of you. The Crabber's are comin' at ya' from a place where there's always a tradition of excellence. Legends never die.

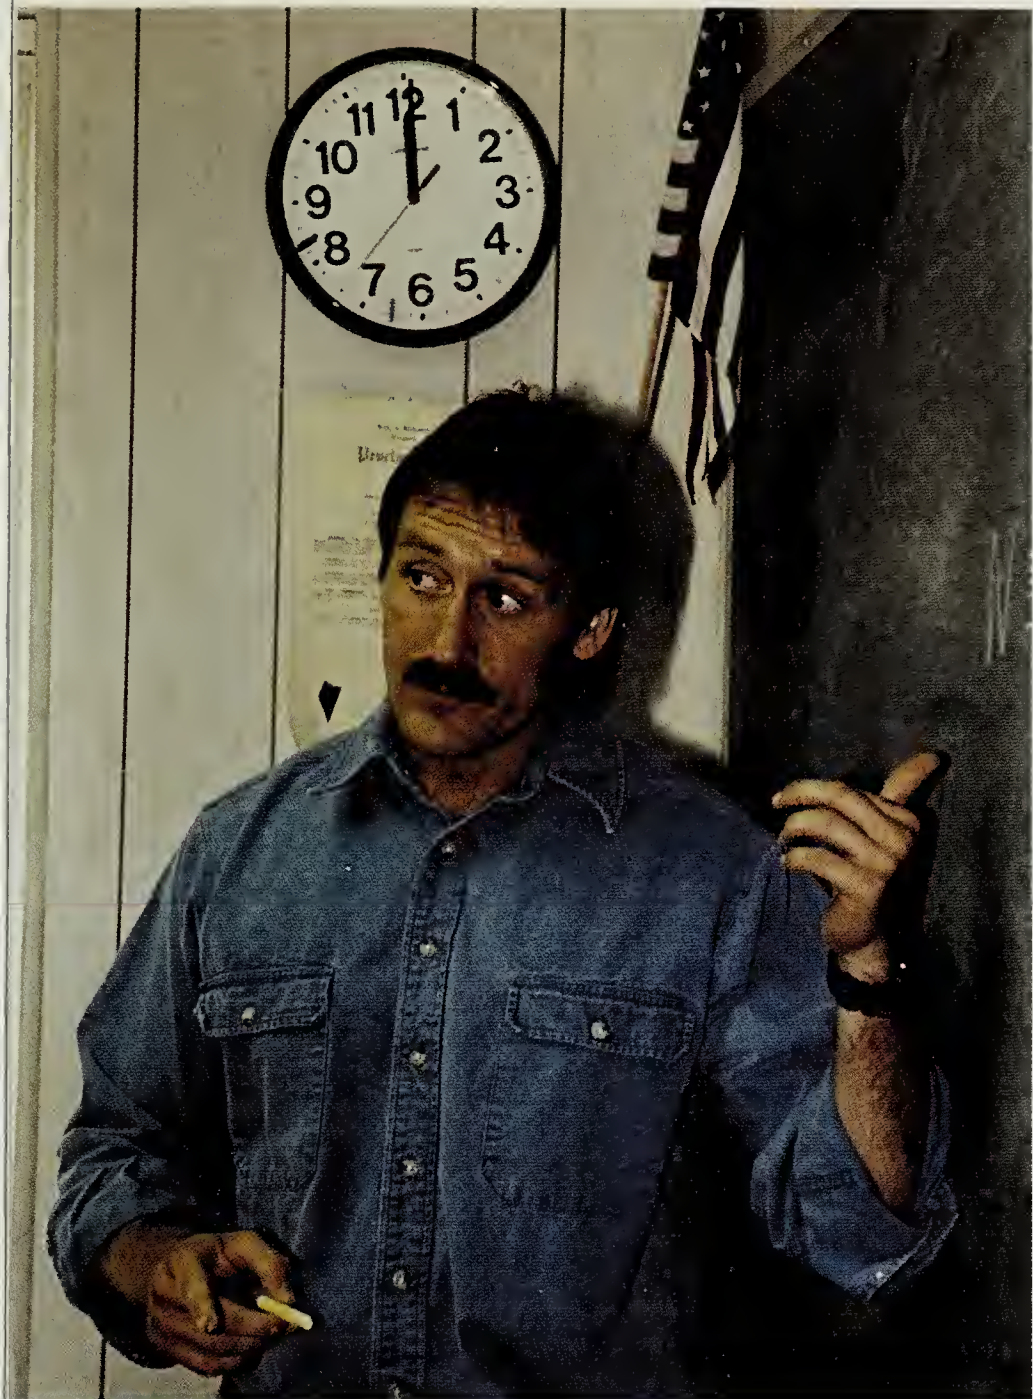

Anthony Wright and friends show their excitement for the Homecoming festivities with some creative face painting in honor of Red and White Day.

Chiquita Womble, Treymayne Wickham, Carlos Ramos, and Angleos Ramos lead the AFJROTC Color Guard to begin the Homcoming parade.

Coach Alvis Mann's classroom door displays the art classes' spirit with changing "door art;" designs depict Crabber fierceness, especially during football season.

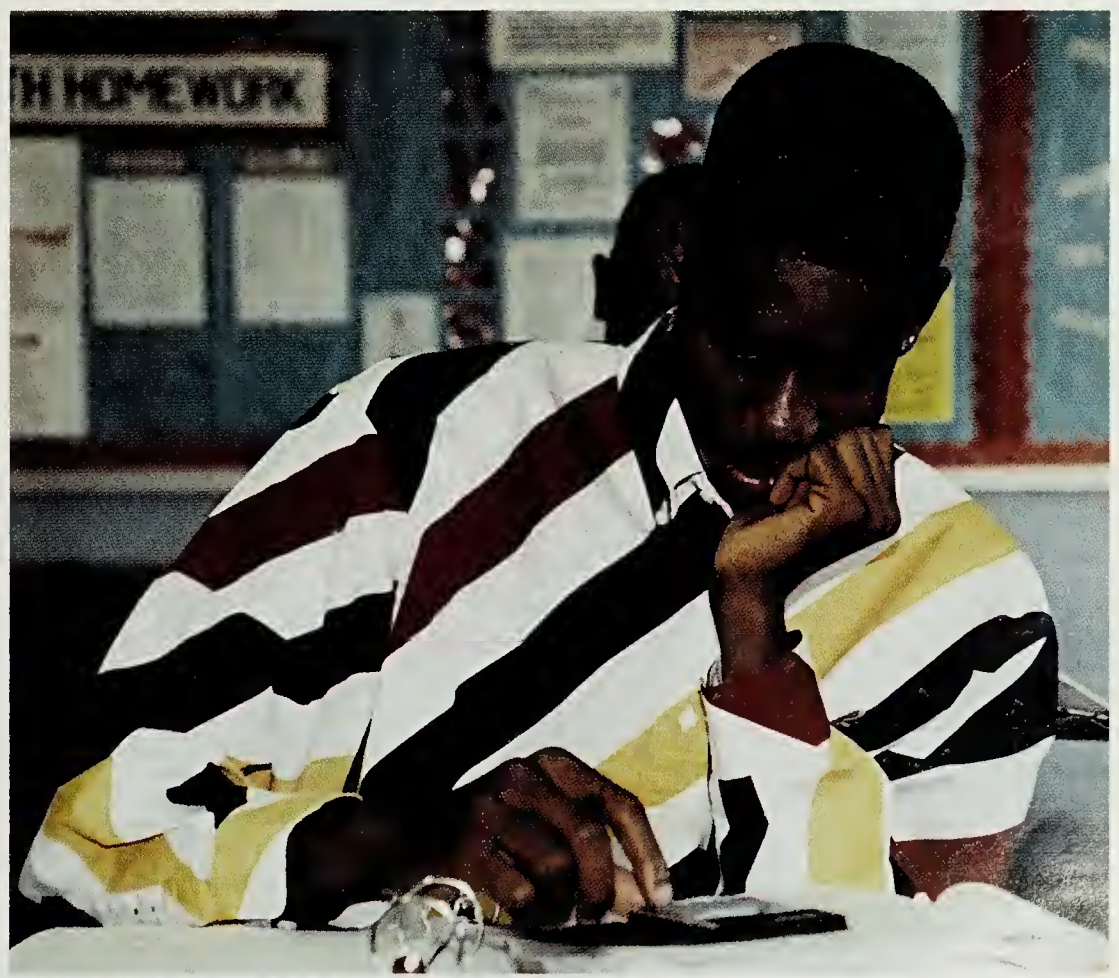

Mr. Joe Sweat emphasizes a point in his Algebra I class. The clock seems to make a point too...LUNCH!

Mrs. Quimby Amory and Yugonda Samle review one of those killer math "let's talk about your grade" days that keep people awake at night.

Khristie Burgos, dressed as a battered Bruin, and Jennifer Kelley, a Crabber guard, prepare to "board" the senior class float, showing Hampton's dominance in the district.

Michael Fink reviews his classwork after the lesson in his math class.

Comin' At Ya...with Academics!

The academic excellence continues another exciting year. The academic curriculum is built around helping the student body further their educational goals and refine their skills to the greatest degree. No matter what the academic situation, the faculty always finds a way to assist students in achieving. Both teachers and students take their academic contributions seriously, and students are equipped with the best the school can possibly offer.

Students have access to up and downstairs computer labs, the media center, guidance, and state of the art business technology.

Programs such as Academic Tech, Study Hall and the S.A.T. workshop are other backbone supports to the school's academic standards. Hampton's business partners, such as Siemens Automotive, allow students to join in with the trained professionals to assist with projects. Students are also involved in the New Horizons Technical Center Program, expanding their planned expectations and enhancing their future. With the student body and faculty working together for a common cause, the academic structure of Hampton High School continues the tradition of excellence.

Mr. Tom Bell gives extra help to Toya Lassiter.

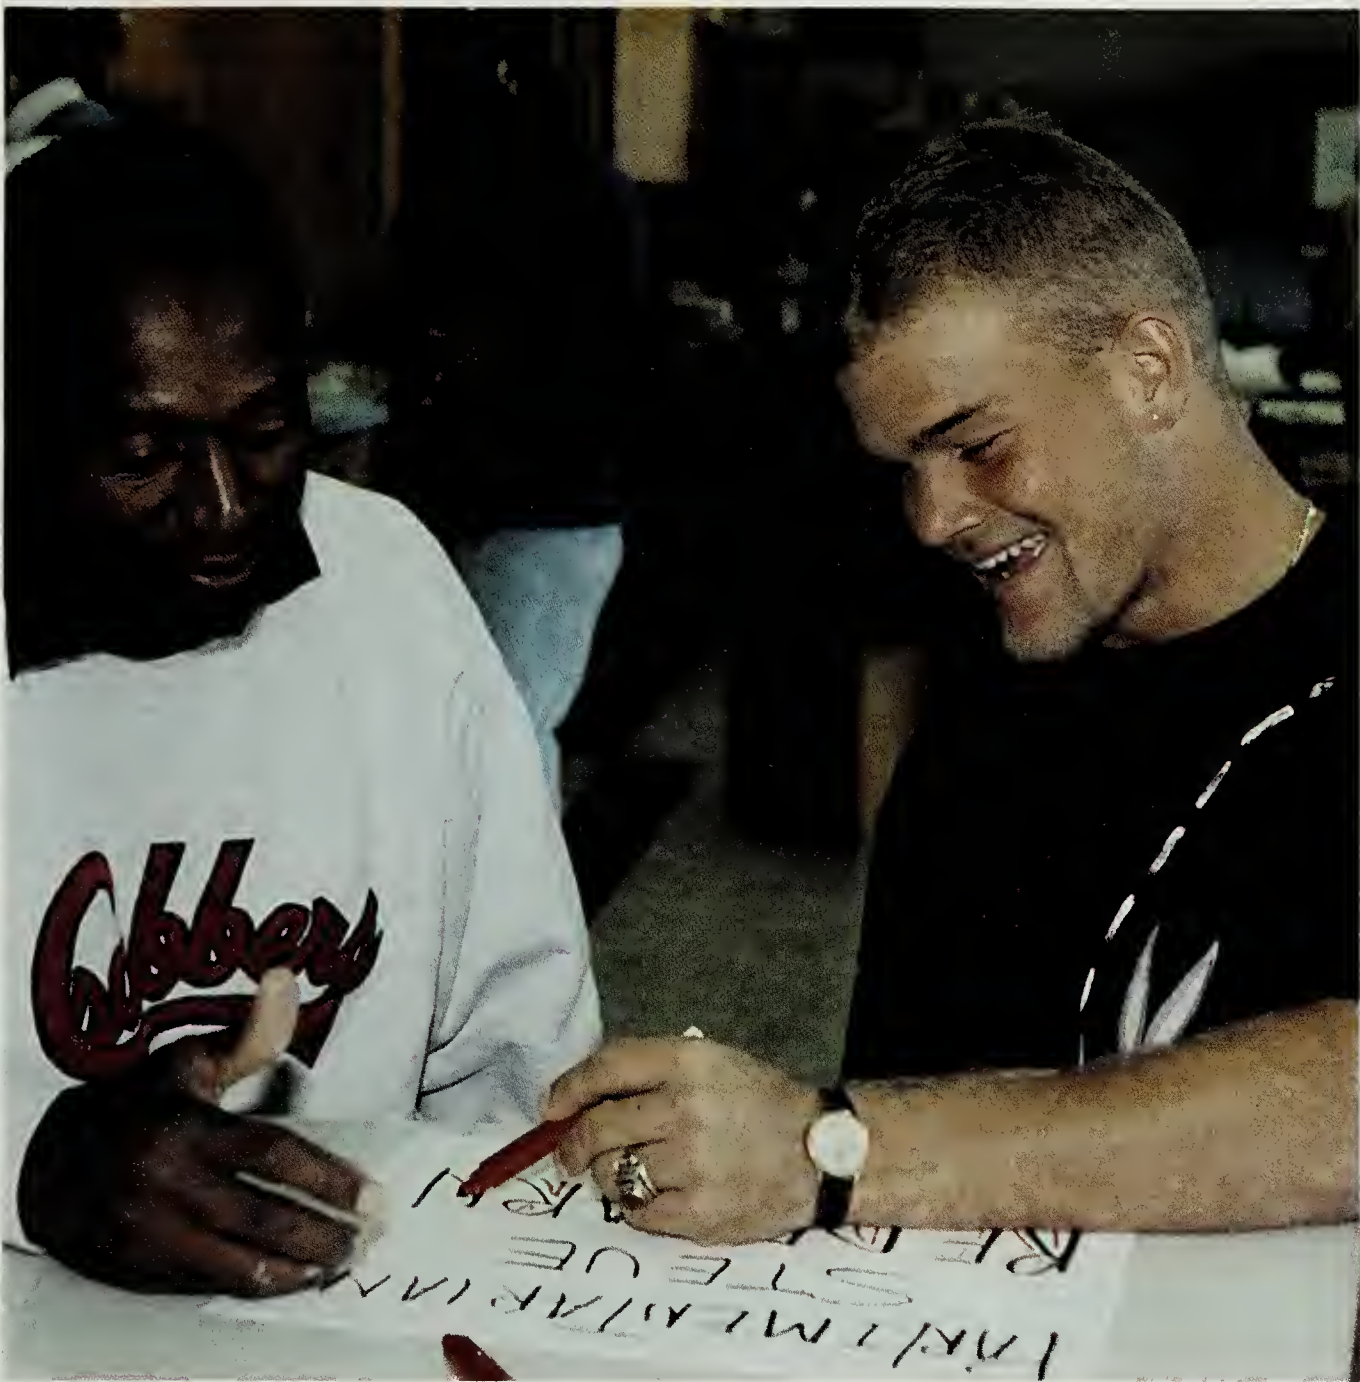

Angela Willoughby and Alisha Staples prepare a French delight as part of their introduction to the language in Mrs. Martha Graham's class.

4/Academics

Michelle Hill sets the world to spinning, covering the globe in the Media Center.

Coach Alvis Mann and Steve Redfearn spend "quality time" off the field, working on Steve's art project.

Onika Holden concentrates on her written classwork in her English class.

Mr. Bob Spain discusses biology grades with Mike Reid.

Mrs. Joyce Corriere assists Katie Morris and Lizz Palmer in the Media Center. The Media Center boasts

Mrs. Linda Ellis goes over basics with Lawrence Miles.

Crabbers Comin' With Clubs and Organizations

The 2:35 p.m. bell signifies not only the end of the school day, but the start of many after-school activities. These activities range from A to Z, from the Antaeus Society to the zany Drama Club. These clubs "come at you" by representing and expanding the spirit of Hampton. Dedicated and hard-working students are included in these clubs to help add spunk to Hampton High.

Clubs help to improve our community. Several clubs do volunteer work for different organizations in the community. Examples of the different services clubs provide for the community are tutoring elementary school children, donating items to Help House, and cleaning up polluted beaches.

Some clubs such as Journalism, Band, the Seafarer and DECA extend the classroom curriculum. They allow the students to become more knowledgeable about subjects and research that may not be fully covered in class. Students make use of different resources in order to provide their club or organization with vital skills and information.

Becoming a member of a club allows students to learn new and exciting things, develop new skills, and enjoy the sense of being part of a crowd yet maintaining individuality. Organizations give students leadership opportunities and help students learn responsibility. Clubs also offer students a chance to establish new friendships and ideas.

Clubs illustrate the variety of pride Crabber students possess. They add to the tradition of excellence Hampton High has always maintained. Clubs and organizations are another division of pride and honor. They are the backbone of Hampton High.

Christian Fellowship Club members Monica Hurst,, Charity Green, Ellen Kiger, Akliah Stevens, Brian Peele, Kenita Jackson, and Angela Watson display a sign from their homecoming float.

Tanya Benson and Larita Goodwin participate in a pumpkin face-painting activity sponsored by Deca.

The members of the Freshman Executive Board show their Crabber Spirit with their creative homecoming float.

The band, the dance line, and the flag corp wait patiently to perform a musical number at a football game.

Clubs like DECA, Debate, and VICA often require background work. Atlanta Daniels and Tabitha Montgomery do their research.

DO YOU HAVE YOUR SCHOOL SPIRIT BUT, LOST YOUR SCHOOL SWEATER?

Service with a smile! Antaues Society members Michelle Rice, Susan Bowers, and Keri Hughson sell Hampton High paraphernalia.

Julie Copp, Meredith Shatto, Wendy Crocker, and Sarah Burchette wave at the crowd as they ride on their first place winning Keyette Homecoming float.

Sports.....Comin' at ya!

Comin' at Ya... with speed, agility, endurance and most importantly, Crabber Pride! Not only is Hampton known for its academics and loyal students, it is also known for its excellent sports programs. Crabber coaches are always on task year round to make sure Crabber Pride stays alive in the Peninsula District. Hampton excels because of the work ethic the Crabbers possess and desire to do better. Each team is different, but displays the same hard work on and off the playing field. The football players and cheerleaders condition year round. Track and basketball also endure a long season. Tennis players, golfers, swimmers, gymnasts, and wrestlers also work hard to keep the Crabber pride tradition alive by preparing for each season. The Hampton Sports Program continues its reign as king of the Peninsula District. The other schools in the District can only dream about the years of winning tradition at Hampton. Competitiveness, class, and pride Comin' at Ya!

J.V Football players work together to gain over the Phoebus Phantoms.

Junior Varsity football coaches stand on the side line as the "baby Crabbers" gain experience for future Crabber victories.

The Varsity cheerleaders show their school support and spirit at the Homecoming pep rally. The cheerleaders performed awesome stunts and dance moves to a variety of music.

The J.V Crabber offense is poised and prepared for their opponent.

The District Champion Hampton Crabbers show their pride and unity before a District game.

Senior Captain Christian Hughes and Sophomore Shanna Brewton exemplify the strength and grace required to be a superb Varsity Cheerleader.

Senior Shareen Boyko works on an assignment in her English class; it's an 8:00 a.m. to 2:40 p.m. routine.

Student life flourishes from the energy, and the spirit that each individual student possess at Hampton.

Energy is hardly evident when that alarm goes off and the race is on--waking up 20 minutes before the tardy bell sounds, smelling the first thing you pick up off the floor to see if it's clean, jumping in the "Magic Bus" or the Dink Mobile with five minutes till the second bell rings, running all the red lights just to be on time. You finally pull into the parking lot only to find no empty spaces. You run through the halls only to remember you left your English essay at home and you look down to realize that your shoes are on the wrong feet. Finally, you have a second to spare, and the day has only just begun.

During each class you watch the clock, counting every second till that class ends just so you can socialize with your friends in between to find out the latest scoop or where the party the coming weekend is going to be held. The "real" current events, like what happened to whom, when, where, why, and how.

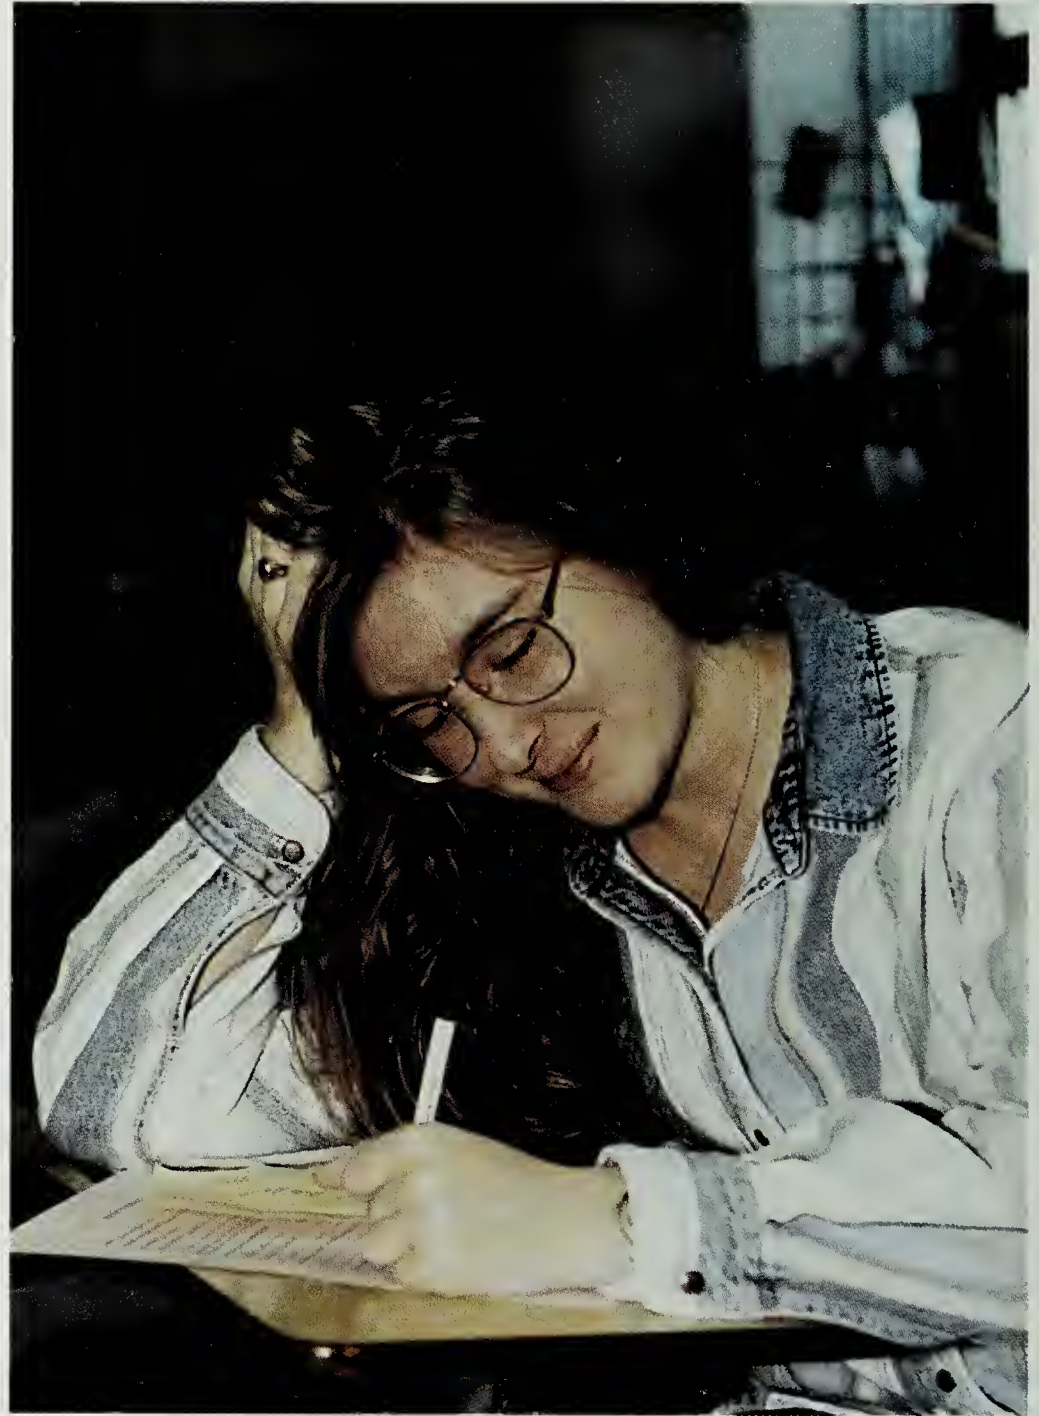

Most of the time our lives thrive on socializing and gossiping with our friends.

Crabbers aren't just dedicated to making friends or socializing, but in our own little way we are dedicated to learning, especially in an environment where, slowly, over the years we've become more comfortable and at ease. Classes, lunch, clubs, groups and fieldtrips all give a blend of the academics and the carefree.

Students don't just participate in school activities like pep rallies, games, and socializing with friends, as many have to deal with day-to-day job schedules. For others there's a daily practice for that team group or sport.

Most often having to struggle school, sports, family, social lives, and family life, Crabbers really don't have a chance to slow down or even relax.

Soon enough our lives will begin to get back on track; after we have a chance to organize, our pressures and stresses will be left far behind.

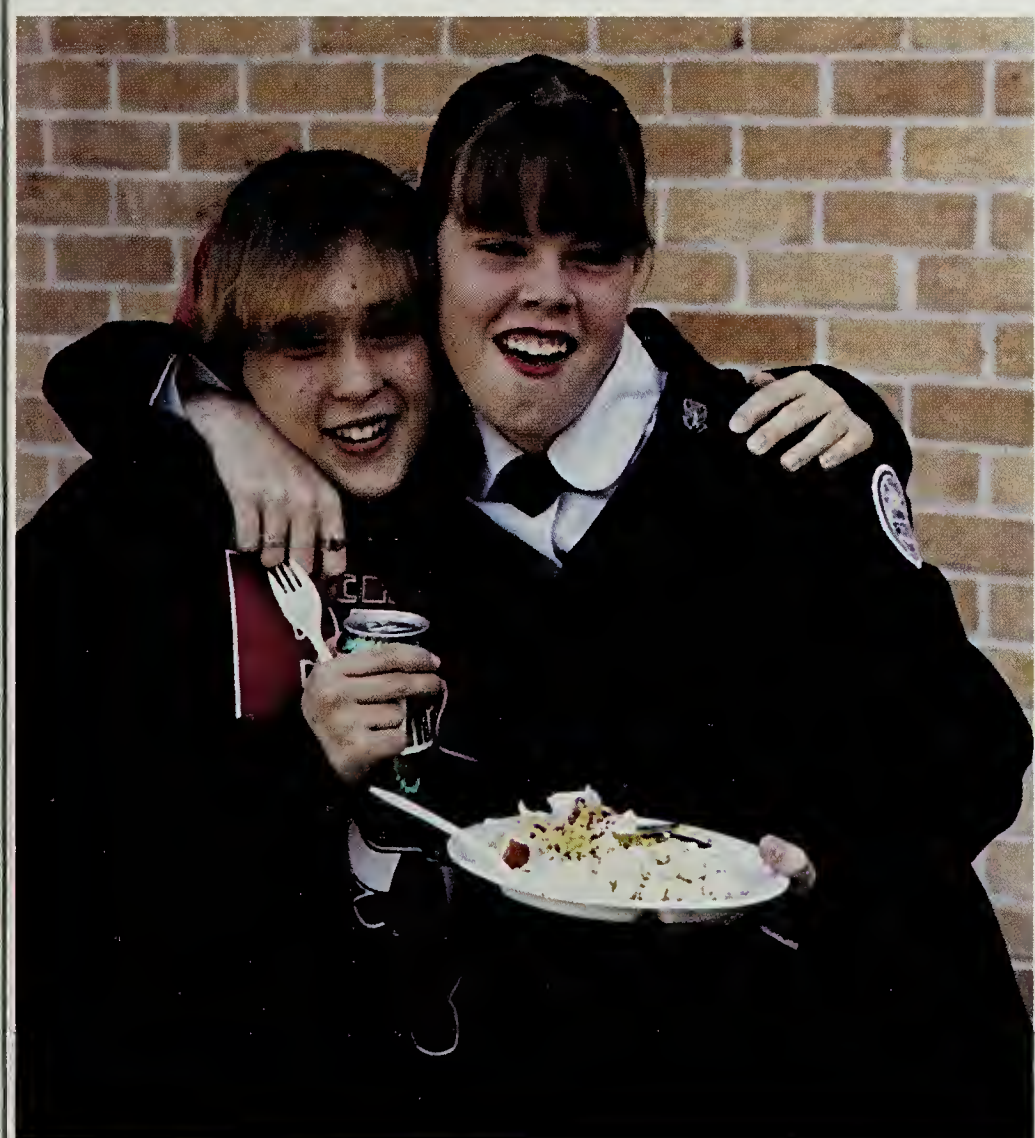

Tramecia Fullwood copies pages of a book for one of her many projects.

Tina Smith and Walkeisha Pittman use their lunch period to relax and forget about class for a few minutes.

Seniors Christian Hughes, Meredith Shatto, and Sarah Burchette help Jonathan Baker choose his best senior portrait for the yearbook.

Best friends, Jessica Duquay and Nicole Miller, hug for a quick photo. Eating lunch outside has become a tradition for some students.

Mrs. Catherine Horne's sixth period class learns about the Indian lifestyles and culture from a Native American.

Crabber Style Is Just Comin' At Ya!

Shanda Almond and Jo'Antho Almond team up together on Tacky Day. It's a brother and sister thang!

If there is a way you want to be looked upon....if there is a way you want to be set aside from everyone else...if there is a way you want to show your stuff...STYLEISCOMIN' ATYA!!!

Many new and exciting styles are comin at ya. Students' style shines through their poise and appearance. Crabber students lead and top the fashion list.

Style by definition is a characteristic mode of expression or action. A stylist is one whose style is distinctive. The Crabber style comes in many different shapes and sizes and expresses the life of the students.

1995 has been one of the most productive fashion years to hit the school. But one thing that makes all the students happy are SHORTS! Shorts were finally approved by the school board, and many people have taken advantage of this new privilege.

One thing that the students use to set themselves aside is their hair. Colors, braids, dreds, and other accessories have contributed to this fashion. Short hair, long hair, or no hair at all expresses an individual's style.

Style is more than just fashion. It's people. As you walk through the halls between classes, some students show their creativeness in their lockers. Locker decorations have become popular. Others show their unique style in their cars or on their license plates.

The Crabber style cannot be defined as one thing. Everyone is a stylist and everyone has his own definition of style.

Purple is the color of the week for Orienne Williams.

The 70's look in back in style and we've got the shoes to prove it!

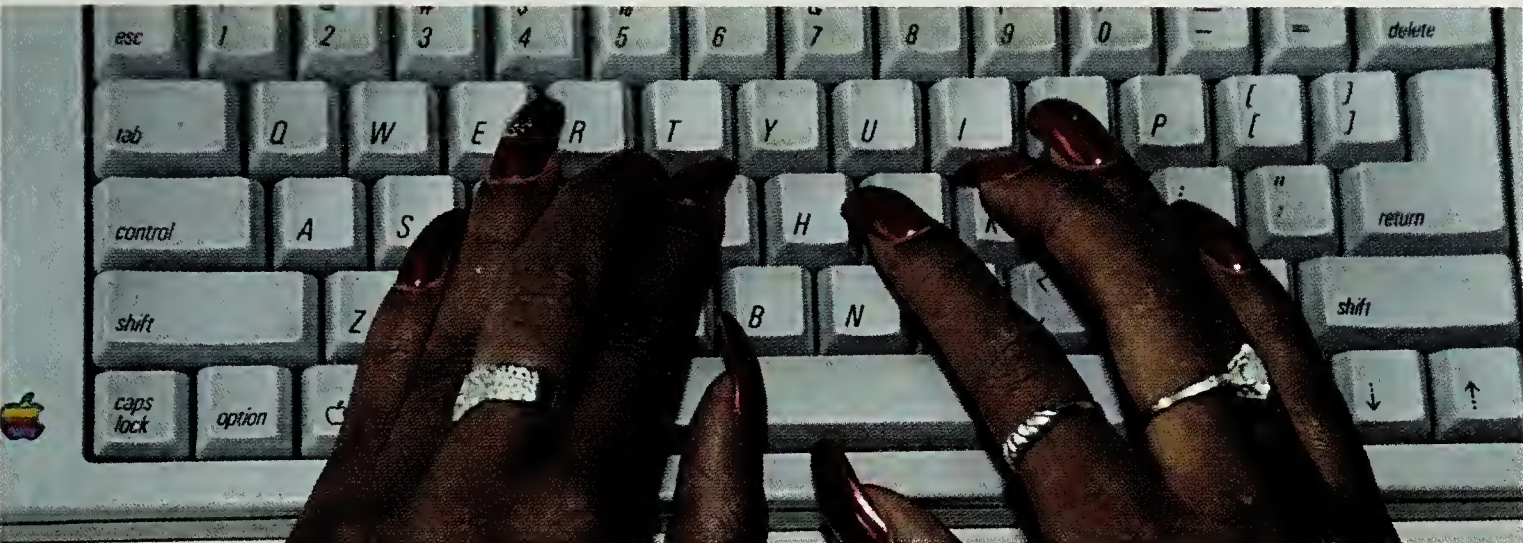

Senior Christian Hughes' car shows it's Crabber spirit on the road.

liesha Smith sports her three afro puffs to represent 60's day.

Nails! Nails! NAILS!!!!

Is it Onyx?...NO!!! It's Brian Lawson andGregory Pratt representing the bald heads.

Christin Blueford shows off her style with her butterfly tattoo, the latest craze. Style/13

Krabbers Rule Everything Around Me

The Varsity Cheerleading Squad shows their newest pyramid at the pep rally

"Krabbers Rule Everything Around Me" was the 1994-95 Homecoming theme. At the beginning of Spirit Week, students started out tacky and by the end were showing their school spirit in red and white. As one of the biggest weeks of the school year, many activities took place, such as the selling of spirit links, junior and senior class tee-shirts, and finally, the Homecoming pep rally, the parade and the big game.

Paper crabs were all over the school and each day had a special dress code. Monday was Tacky Day followed by 60's Day on Tuesday; Hat, Tie and Button Day, Wednesday; College Day on Thursday; and Friday was Red and White!

Friday hosted the pep rally with Faye Peters singing the National Anthem. The Dance Line and both cheerleading squads performed. Class competitions included a three-legged race, with the seniors coming in first, a balloon pop, with juniors taking top honors and a football push with no winning class. The spirit stick competition ended in a tie, until the seniors brought down the house with a first place win.

After school students flocked to City Hall to get their floats ready for the parade which ended at Darling Stadium.

The game half-time was highlighted with the presentation of the Court and the crowning of Shanda Bailey as Homecoming queen. The game against Ferguson was a victory, as were all the activities of the entire week, proving that "Krabbers Really Do Rule Everything Around Me!"

The AFJROTC and Color Guard led the Homecoming Parade.

Coach Alvis Mann's art students won the Spirit Week Door Decorating Contest.

Freddy the Crab, A.K.A. Tim Cline, captures the Ferguson mascot at the Homecoming game.

Juniors, decked out in their sporty '96 tees ride the parade float in a flurry of red and white balloons.

Aaron Whittington, one of the band's drum majors, watches the pep rally festivities from the crowd; his face defining red and white..

Enthusiasm is obvious in these faces at the football game..

Mrs. Johanna Carpenter and her fifth period students were boasting their college wear during Spirit Week.

HOMECOMING COURT

The Baby Crabbers show their happiness as representatives to the court. Tanya Hargrove was escorted by Katara T. Holmes and Kenisha Revish was escorted by Ronald N. Claiborne.

The senior class representatives and their escorts are: : Gerald Johnson and Tasha Mackey, Christopher A. Johnson and Teri Scott, Joey Jones and Shanda Bailey.

The sophomore class representatives display their gratitude to their class . Dinnis King escorted Kenya Highsmith and John Graham escorted Dana Broadnax.

16/Homecoming Court

1994 HOMECOMING QUEEN

Shanda Bailey has been a member of the court for three consecutive years. She was chosen as the 1994 Homecoming Queen.

Seniors

We've been comin' at ya for three years and now the class of 1995 is here. We are a diverse group of young adults ready and eager to face what lies ahead for us in the future. We have experienced a lot together since we first stepped into these halls, but every challenge that was given to us, we succeeded in meeting.

It is finally our turn to be at the top, to be the one's in the spotlight. We are now envied and admired by the underclassmen, who long to walk in our shoes. And what a walk it has been! Ever since the fall of 1991, when we embarked on the journey that has led us here, we have been making our mark and setting the standard for all others to follow.

It might be difficult for someone on the outside to understand how special we are. We are so special because we are so different. We come from different backgrounds, hold different beliefs and have different aspirations. But, these past years that we have spent together have taught us to look past our differences and enjoy the times that we have shared. We have made friendships that will last a lifetime. We have grown up together, learned many lessons and taught people to look out world, Hampton High School's class of 1995 is comin' at ya!

Ronel Brewer makes the rest of the field eat his dust as he pushes the senior class to victory during a pep rally.

Amanda Reynolds goofs off during class. Although very serious about their work, seniors make the most of the precious time they have to have fun.

LaKeachia Washington and April Tibbs express their senior pride as they dance along with the band. Although they have a lot of fun being captains of the dance line, there is a lot of pressure balancing school work and extracurricular activities.

Seniors show their authority by turning their backs to the underclassmen, demanding the respect they rightfully deserve.

James Richie and Tyawn Poole discuss an upcoming English project. Seniors know that teamwork is best way to make it to graduation.

Good friends Jonathan Baker and Sarah Burchette smile for the camera while working on a feature article for the newspaper. Close friendships are necessary to survive this stressful year.

Teri Scott, Keisha Randall, Sean Jerkins, and Akilah Stevens catch up on the mornings events at lunch. Lunch is one of the few times that seniors can talk and socialize with their friends.

Senioritis:

"Senioritis (se-nior-i-tis) n. - a disease that affects only 12th graders, causing a lack of interest in anything dealing with education."

While the disease strikes some seniors slowly, its effect on others occur more rapidly. A loss of interest in school and anything to do with education are common symptoms. Weekends contribute to the symptoms causing seniors to crave for the time when they can finally be free from the monotony of high school. As the number of days until graduation begins to decrease, 12th graders start to feel that rules no longer apply to them. They take off more and more days and do less and less work.

Early in the year these symptoms are handled by making seniors deal with the reality of college. By working on college applications and resumes, trying to obtain scholarships, and taking SAT's, many are able to stay focused on their final year. However, as the spring approaches, attention in class begins to decline.

This disease is prevalent and has to be confronted. Time and graduation are its only true cures.

Wendy Crocker doesn't even know what to say, she's at such a loss for words.

Amanda Reynolds ponders the scope of the universe in paper shreds...a chronic symptom.

What's in a Name?

"What's in a name? A rose by any other name would smell as sweet," says William Shakespeare. Well, contrary to what Shakespeare believes, names are very meaningful to those that hold them, especially the variously "tagged" members of the senior class.

Teaching Seniors

A dedicated group of teachers have the distinguished job of readying the senior class for the "outside world." In addition to the academics of English and government, senior teachers also convey the many lessons seniors can apply to all aspects of their lives.

Patience, originality, enthusiasm and a sense of humor are the qualities of Mrs. Rebecca Dillard, Mrs. Doris Dancy, Mr. John Scott, Mr. Max Jarrell, Mrs. Catherine Horne, Ms. Marcia Snyder and Mrs. Chryse Cheney, all senior teachers of those last two requirements.

Mrs. Horne says that seniors are "usually very mature and independent, because they usually have a great deal of responsibility."

As seniors prepare to take adult steps with their lives, Mrs. Cheney's parting advice is, "It takes hard work to get somewhere in life. Life doesn't owe you anything. You can accomplish a lot - but it takes hard work."

Mrs. Doris Dancy, Senior English teacher, confers with Ryan McClellan about one of the many essays required for the class.

SENIOR STRESSES!!!!

Many underclassmen feel that the Senior year of high school is the easiest year of them all. However, if you ask any member of the class of '95, he or she will tell you differently.

Many seniors have part-time jobs, play sports, or participate in other activities that tire them out, and then they come home to find college applications and a pile of homework waiting for them. "Trying to balance school and work is very stressful, because these decisions that we make now will affect our future," says Brandon Van Dyke.

Obviously, one's senior year is not the year to mess around with. Juggling work, keeping up GPA's, doing homework, keeping active in those other activities, prepping for SAT's, filling out those college applications and tossing down those aspirins will all pay off in June when seniors receive that diploma!

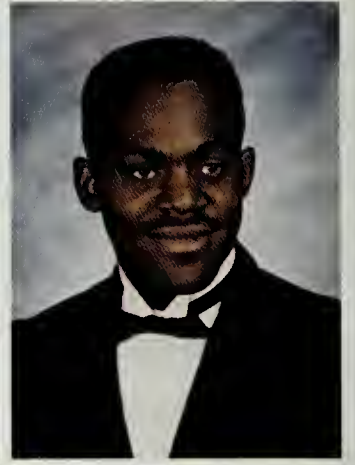

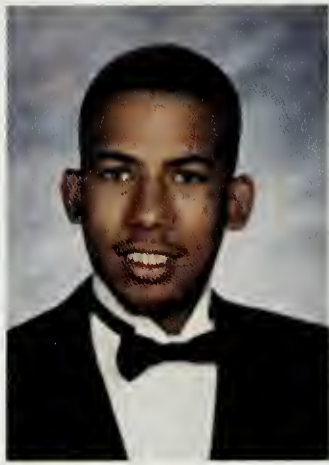

Ask James Kahley about the hassle of selling chips, yearbooks, newspapers, key chains, decals and candy every day at lunch.

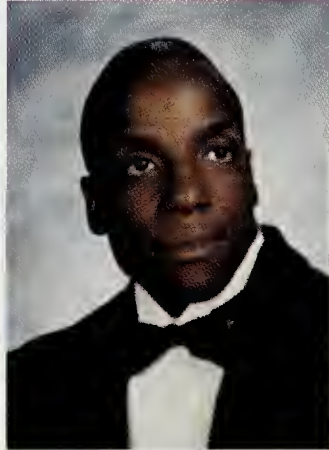

Denise Policastro would probably like to chew that pencil, as senior crunch time hits year round.

Do You Remember?

Do you remember this? Oh yeah... digging deep into the historical vault of freshman pictures, from 1991, of course, seniors can look back at the years of "freshmanhood." We look back at how many phases we have passed through and out of. You thought you were so cool back then, too. Although we're seniors now, we've survived high school and come a long way since then. To see how far we've really come, look back on things in this earthly life as they were then.

'95 Bids Farewell!

by Annette Bisbee and Sarah Burchette

When I stood outside of the school with my friends and class to form our '95 formation, it reminded me of my first day as a freshman - chaos, confusion, and especially excitement, filled the air. It was the beginning of a four-year journey that has led us where we are today. We are near the end of our journey - we will soon go our separate ways, after taking so much time shaping our lives, finding our way together, leaving the place where we all have grown and matured, leaving our friends and our fondest moments behind.

Ironically, with the '95 photograph, the class had to abandon the lined-off formation on the front lawn because of the sun's shadows, and arrange itself in the back - with no lines to follow, no guides to lead, no one to direct almost 300 students. The final product, our own formation, wrought out of chaos, represents the frustration, failures, achievements, and successes that we all have experienced together.

Once the formation was made and the picture taken, the class began to leave. Breaking apart, I realized it was only foreshadowing what was to come. I'll leave this place behind and most of my friends with whom I have reached "the ultimate goal." Though I am excited, I will extend my journey even farther. I am scared to start all over again, and leave what I hold dear to me behind.

Thank you - to the class of '95 for making this four year experience one I'll never forget.

Juniors Anticipate the 100th

The Junior Class anxiously awaits their senior year, just as all of the other junior classes have for ninety-nine years. In 1959, Hampton High School was moved to its present location. From then on, many classes have passed through Hampton High. Now, it's their turn, and they, the class of 1996, will proudly graduate as the 100th class of Hampton High School.

The junior class has come a long way since their freshman year. Starting out as freshman, they learned the many responsibilities of high school and they way it felt to finally be a Crabber.

Continuing on as sophmores, they looked upon that responsibility more seriously. Now, as juniors, they have many decisions to make. They look forward to taking part in their first real prom. They look forward to being seniors and graduating as the 100th class of Hampton High.

To be a part of the 100th graduating class is a great honor. As juniors, they strive to show how much they appreciate this honor, as they rise to the occasion.

Juniors Choose Rings

The time has finally come for the junior class to order their rings. The juniors receive their rings at the traditional Ring Dance from Principal Lowell Thomas.

Cecelia Zellars chose a ring that would display her own individuality and status. Little things like inscriptions, clubs, and sports also complicate the matter of selecting exactly what the ring will look like.

Another aspect to rings this year is that juniors will be the one hundredth class to graduate from Hampton High. Although selection takes a long time, and the decision is hard, when the rings are placed on juniors' fingers, it was all worth while.

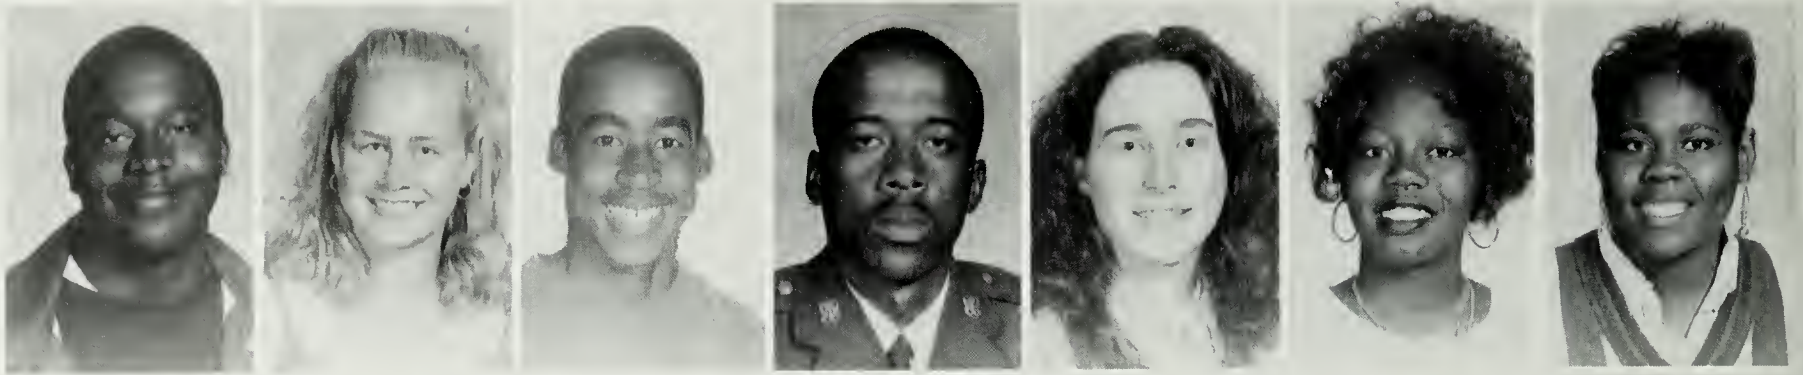

Luray Spencer, Mark Dallas, and Devin Burden look over the selections as Herff-Jones representatives take orders.

Javier Garcia Joins Juniors' Ranks

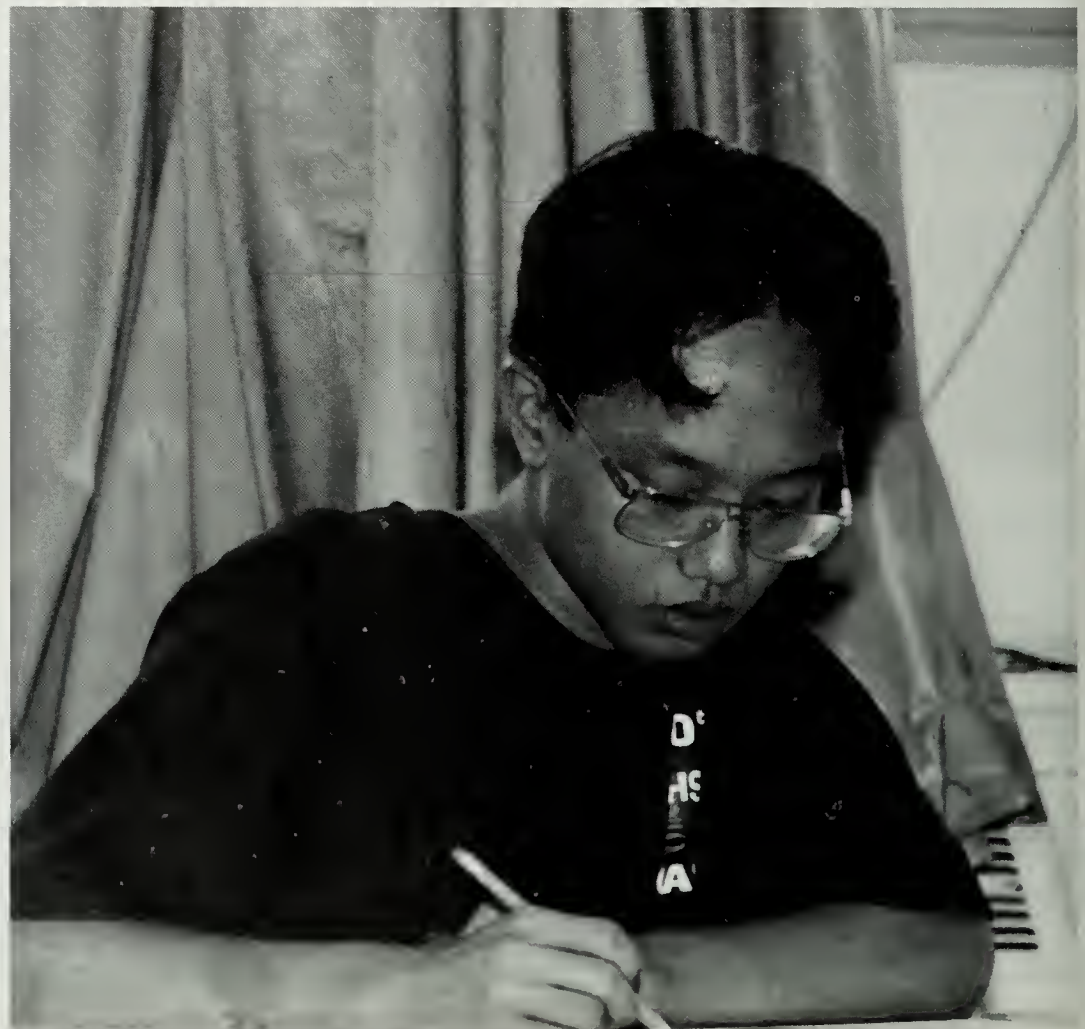

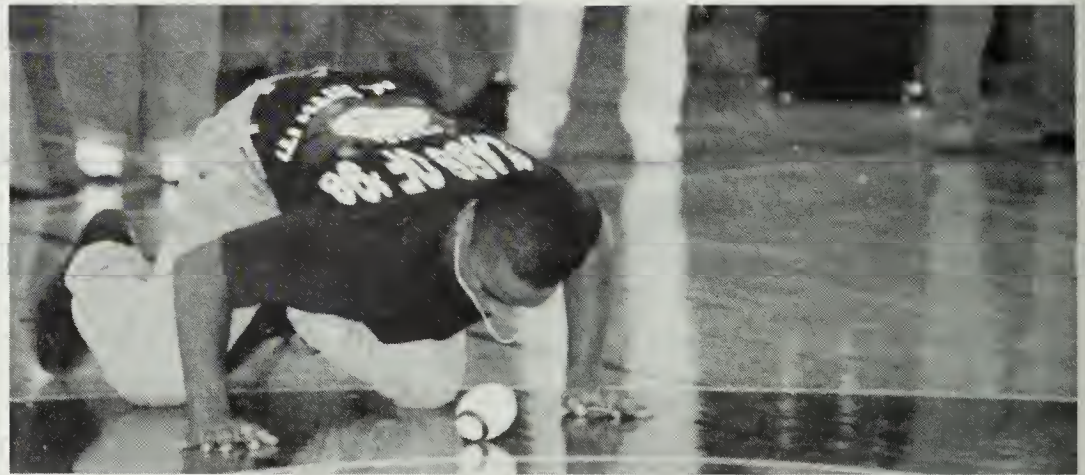

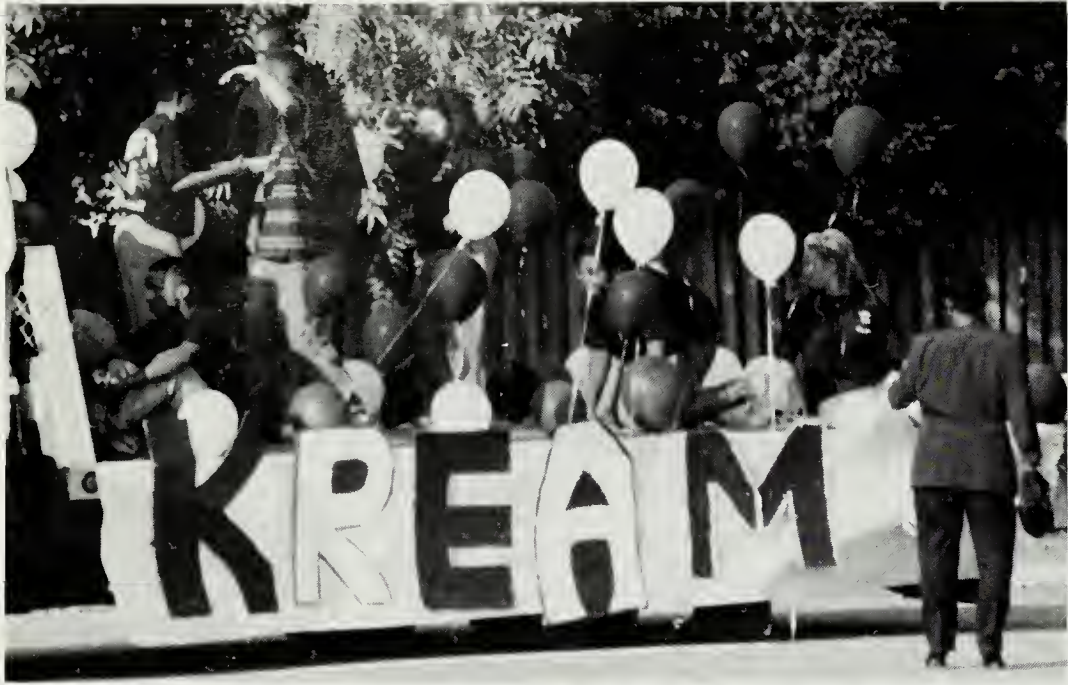

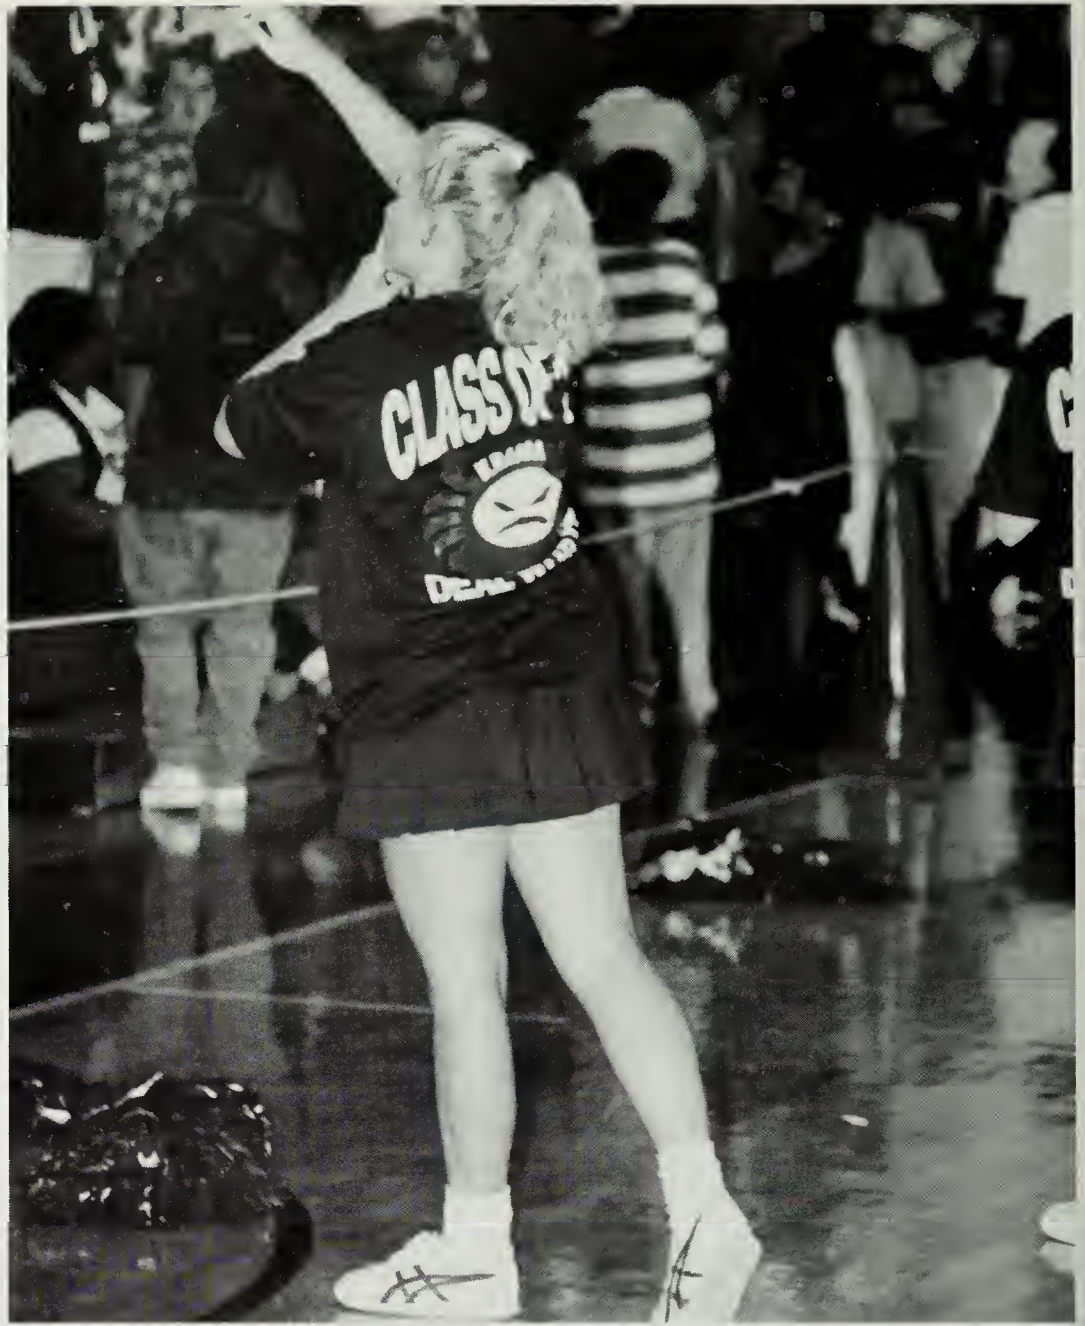

Juniors added a new cultural asset to their ranks in student, Javier Garcia, from Madrid, Spain. He is living here for one year with his sponsor family, the Freemans.

Javier likes staying in America, but says the two countries are very different. "The people here are much nicer. Everyone wants to be your friend. And the schools are different, too. In Spain, we are in one classroom for nine hours."

Javier enjoys going over to his friends Sarah, Jeff, and Denise's house and watching American football.

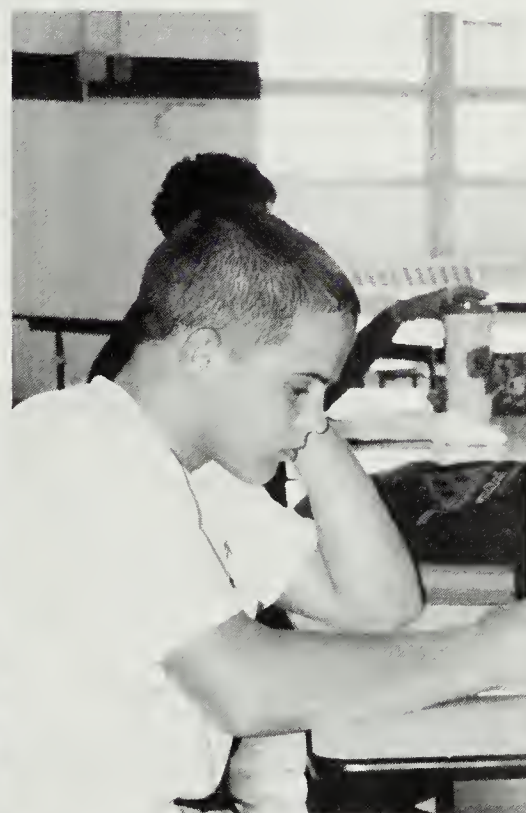

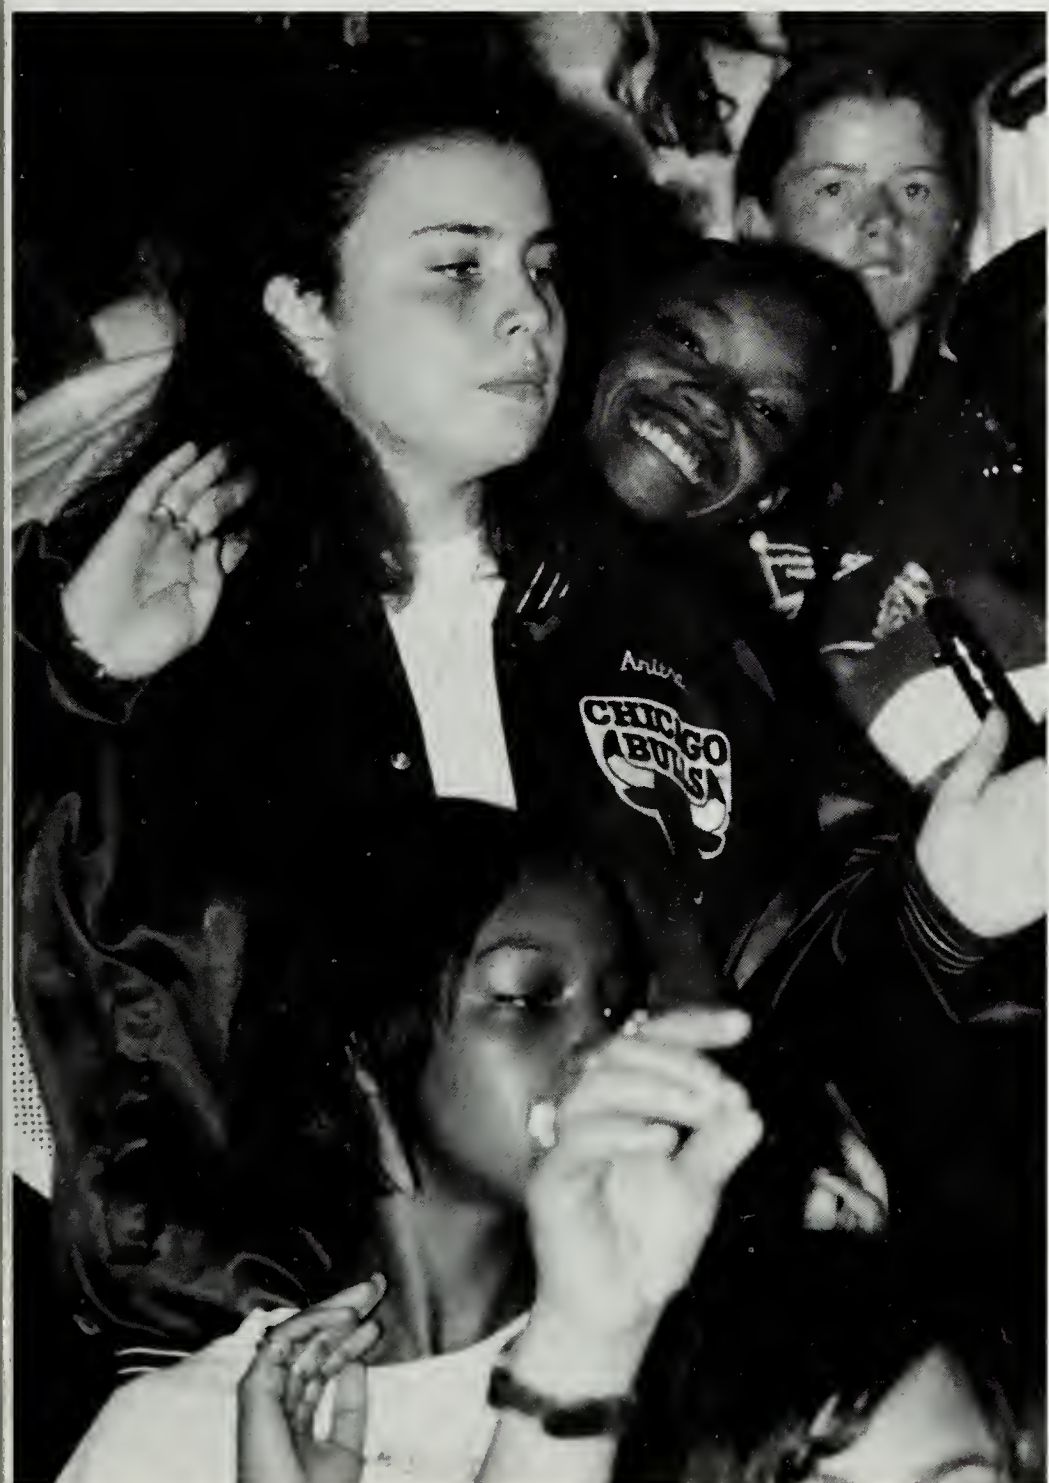

Javier Garcia visits the Journalism classroom to look over a yearbook to learn more about Hampton High.

Sophomore Spirit

Look around the school and ask who is participating in school functions and activities. Many sophomores dress up for sixties day, cheer with their class during pep rallies, and support Crabber sports teams.

The class of 1997 is one of the most spirited classes in the building. Throughout the year, the sophomore class has displayed spirit, enthusiasm, and initiative. With the help of their sponsor, Ms. Joyce Corriere, the class officers have worked many hours to generate spirit throughout the sophomore class with participation in many school activities.

The tremendous spirit held by the sophomore class will carry them to great heights. They are well on their way to achieving much success and becoming a great graduating class.

Run by a very unique set of girls. Dana Broadnax leads the class as president; LaTanya Stanley is Vice President; Brooke Ballard is Secretary; and Carrie Williams is the Treasurer. They are sponsored by Ms. Joyce Corriere.

The sophomore class hosted the Junior class' Ring Dance by greeting people at the door and providing the refreshments.

"Balancing presidency of the sophomore class, Project Discovery, and other extracurricular activities keeps me very busy. I enjoy this responsibility and I'm glad to help the sophomore class," says Dana Broadnax.

The class of '97 is in good hands with these girls.

Mrs. Joyce Corriere, Jennifer Stone, and Monica Lewis serve the refreshments at the Juniors' Ring Dance.

Freshmen Class Officers

The freshmen class leaders are President Joe Callis; Vice President Rose Nguyen; Secretary Jamie Hodges and Treasurer Michelle Taylor. The class of 1998 is being guided to a fresh new start.

The Baby Crabbers take on responsibilities to lead their freshman class throughout the school year. These highly motivated students put forth their best effort to get their class more involved in student activities. "Watch out for the freshman class," says Joe Callis President, because in a few years the class of 1998 will be leading the pack. The sponsor for this year's freshman class is Mrs. Judy Pine.

Joe Callis and Todd Denney make the class of 1998's float show that this class is on its way to the top!

Freshman Spirit

The freshman spirit is alive and well. The class of 1998 showed its class spirit beginning with the Homecoming parade. "You Can't Crush A Crab" is the new phrase for all freshmen to learn, but even though these freshmen may be new, their class spirit is already starting to show.

The "Baby Crabber Spirit" is alive and well. This class has overwhelming spirit considering this is their first year at HHS. Homecoming and the pep rallies are good examples of the freshman spirit "Comin' At Ya!"

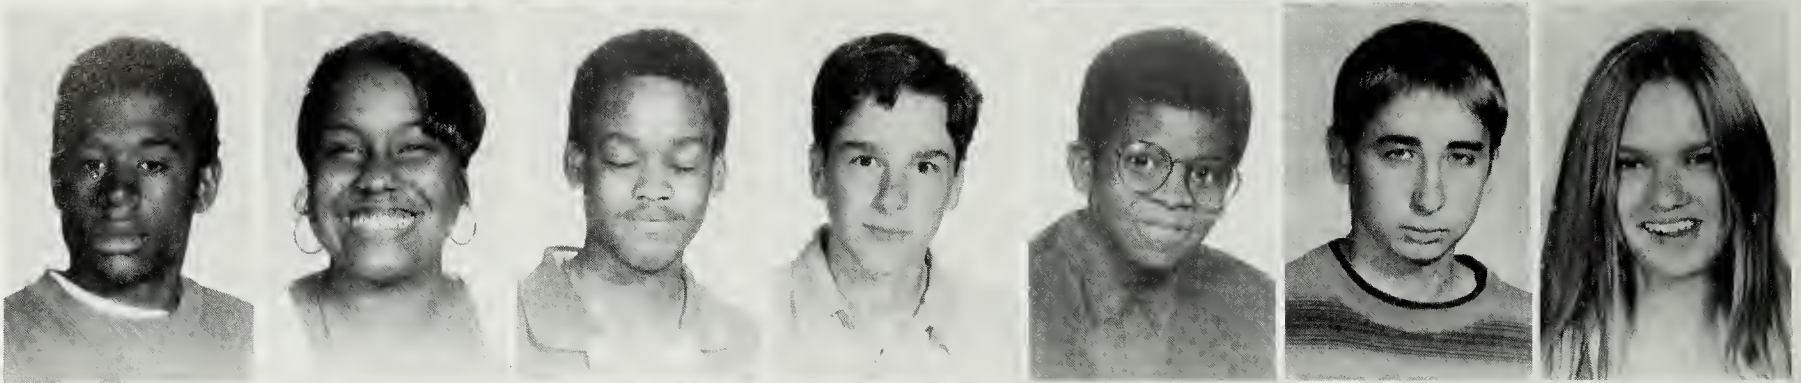

Jamie Hodges and the Freshman Class show their spirit in the Homecoming parade with an elaborate entry for 1998!

Freshmen Dress Out

A part of every freshman's first semester is having to go through P.E. Whether they are playing basketball, softball, or tennis, every single student is just trying to make it through the day. Gym is a part of every freshman's life at Hampton High. Whether they like it or not, everyday they know that they will have to make that awesome decision about dressing out!

Although P.E. is a part of the day that most students don't look forward to, it is a way for them to keep physically fit. Ms. Karen Holley says, "The class sizes are small, and the behavior has been good, as well as the athletic ability."

Coach Brower adds, "Freshmen just need to make the adjustment to high school and grow up a little."

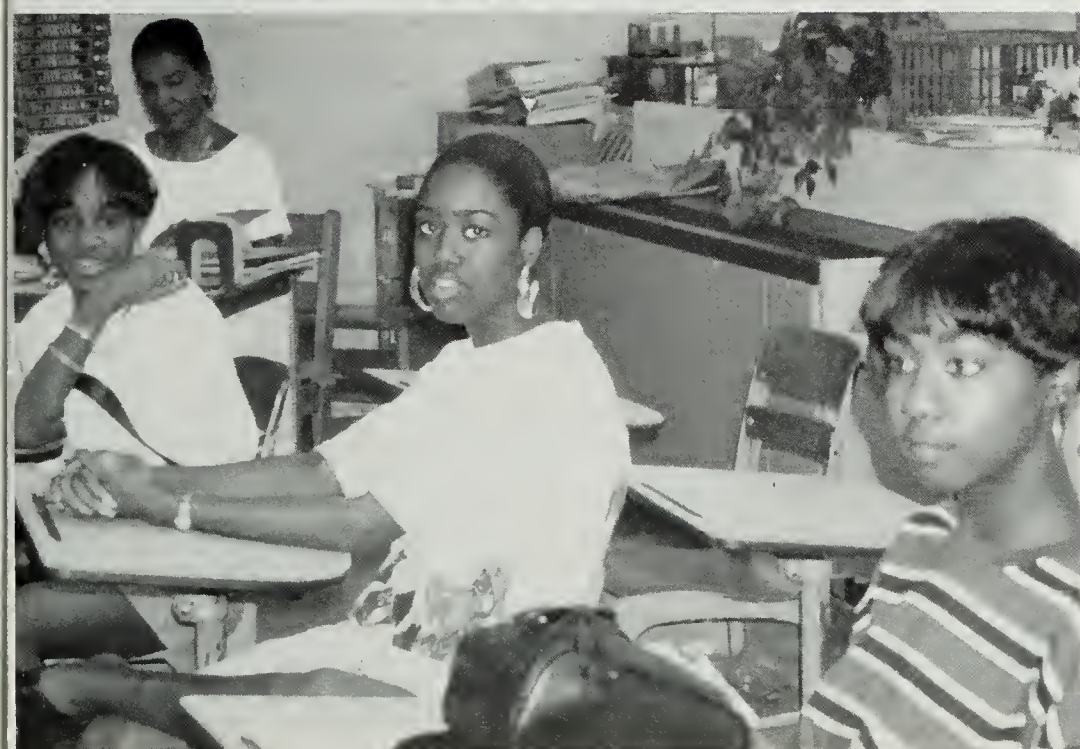

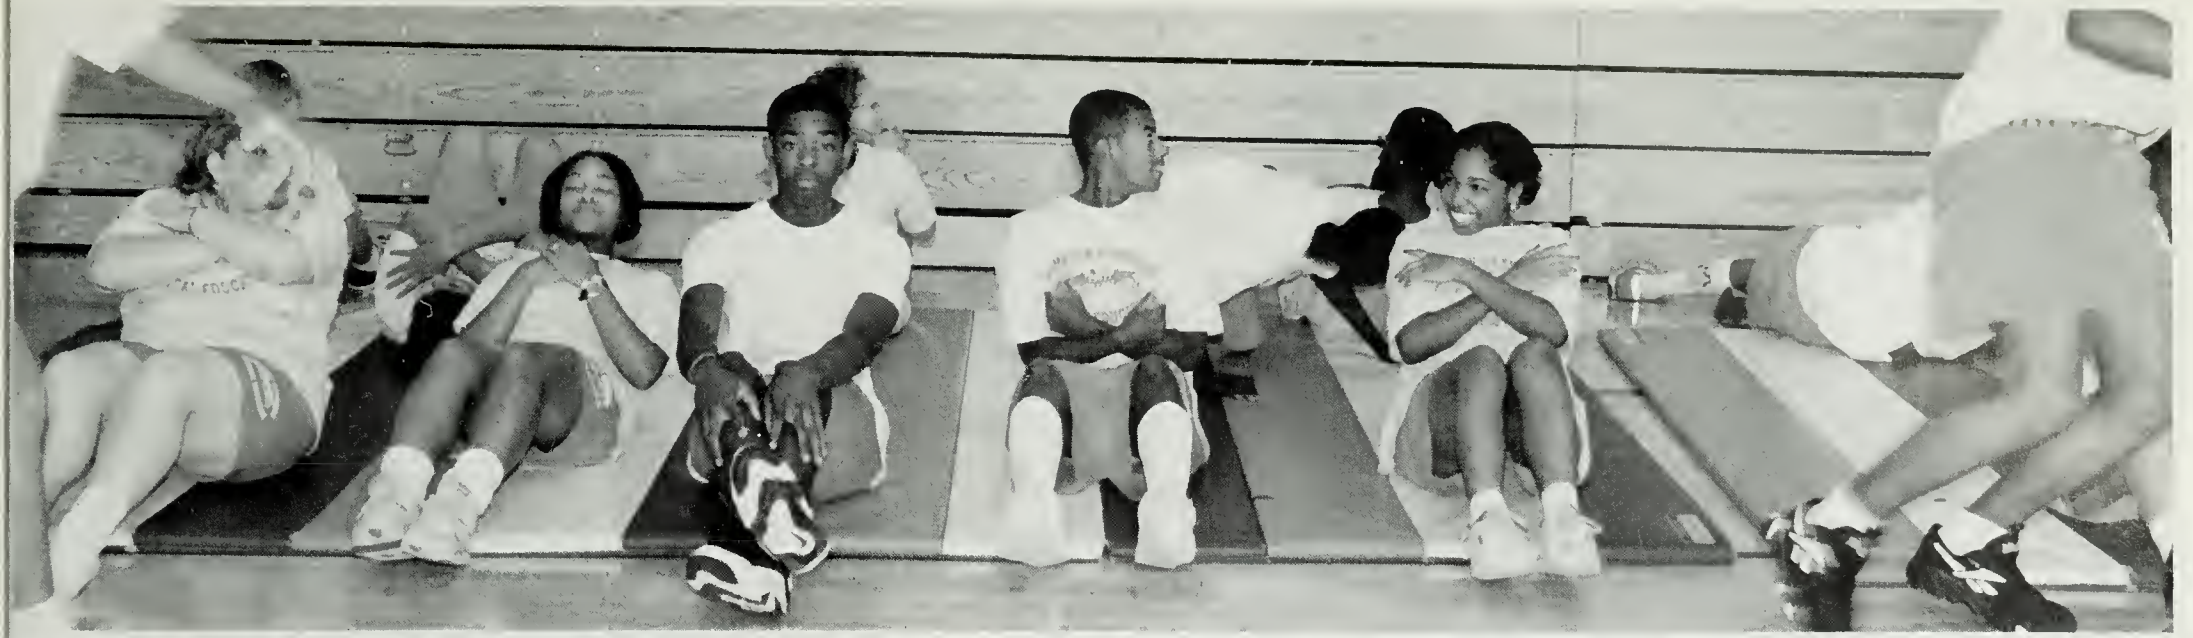

Chris Fields, Angela Willoughby, Crystal Lyons, and Kianta Massenburg are busy doing their sit-ups.

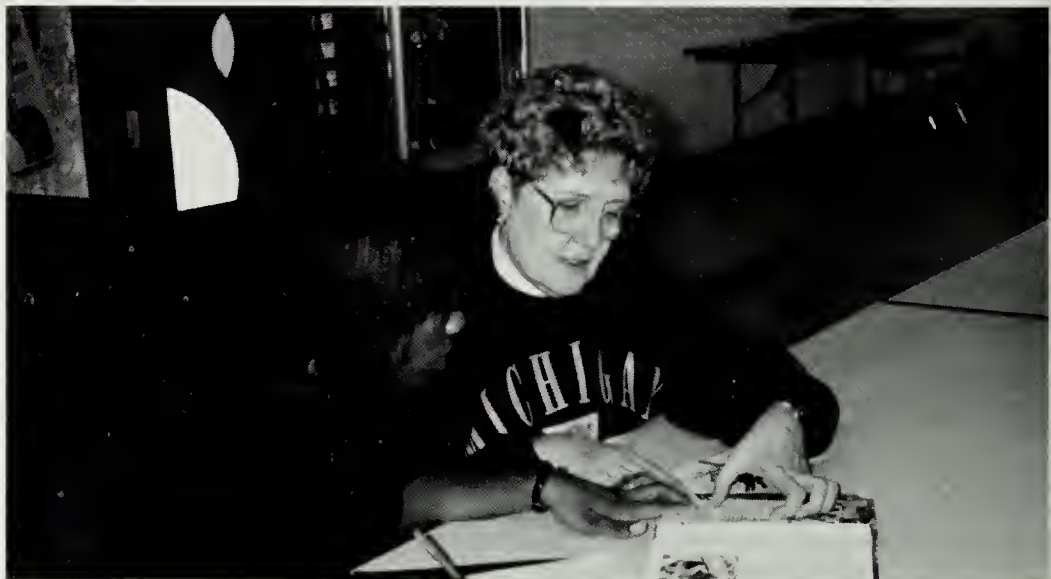

Jakia Moore builds up her triceps as she does her daily push-ups.

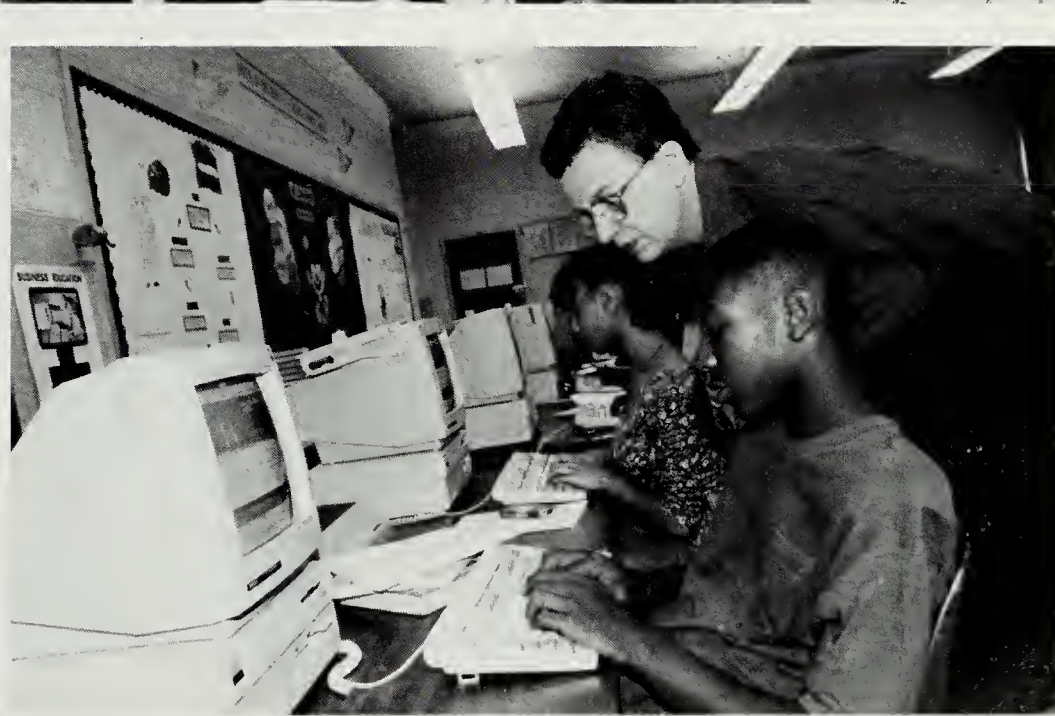

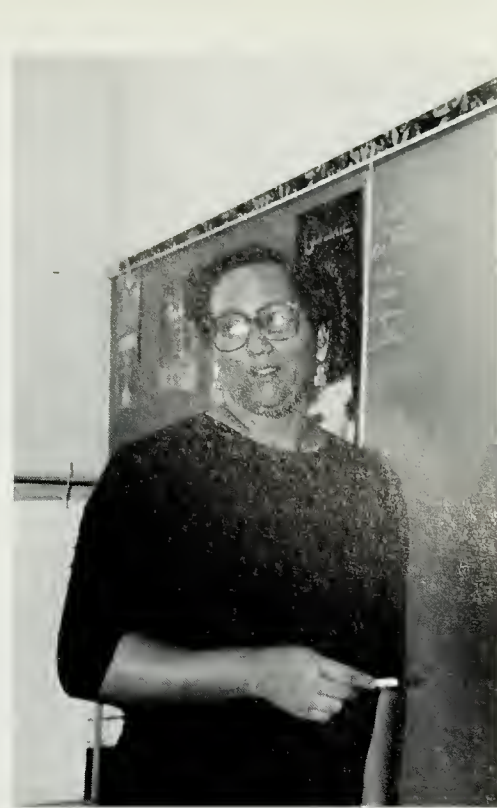

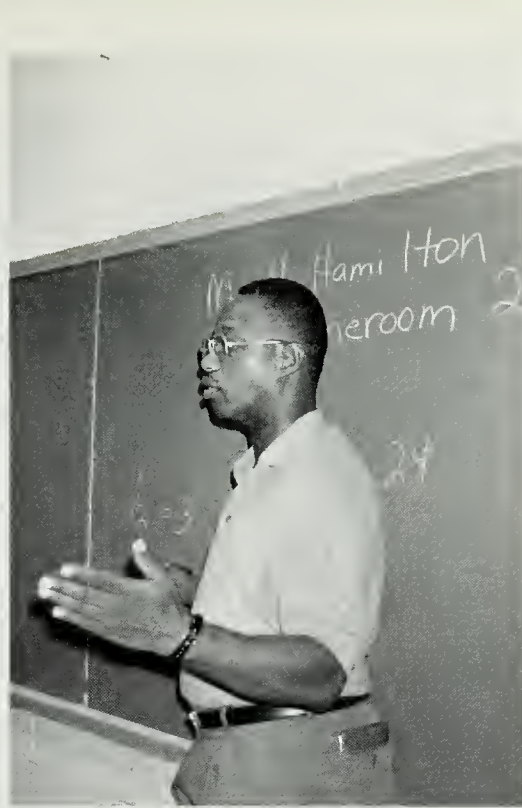

Zuri Mines stretches before he plays basketball in gym class.

Mrs. Isabelle White, The School Nurse

She's your mother away from home, she takes care of you when you're sick, fixes up your bumps and bruises when you fall down, and even listens to your problems when you have them. Who might this be? She is Mrs. Isabelle White, the school nurse.

Mrs. White has been in the nursing field for 23 years and has held positions in every phase of nursing. Mrs. White expresses that she enjoys school nursing, and thinks it is a very interesting job to hold. She says she has students who come in on a serious note, and she also has those called malingers-those students who just want to come hang around and be out of class.

Mrs. White says, "I think of the students as my own kids, and I like being there for them." Without a school nurse, what exactly would go on at Hampton High.....

Mrs. Isabelle White greets each patient with a smile.

Even after listening to many problems, Mrs. Hines still has time to smile for the camera.

Trina Hines, Student Assistance Counselor

Working with teenagers is a difficult task, but someone who cares and wants to make the world a better place has to do it. Mrs. Trina Hines is that person. She is the Student Assistance Counselor for Alternatives Inc. in Hampton.

It is very obvious that Mrs. Hines loves children and is very friendly or she wouldn't have devoted 10 years of her time to help children with family problems. These are not just simple problems, but major conflicts with parents who are divorced or have problems dealing with alcoholism and drug use.

Mrs. Hines should be very proud of her accomplishments at this school. There are probably hundreds of kids that she has talked to and made a significant difference in their life. "I feel very rewarded and pleased to know that my sessions have such an impact," she says. When she was in her youth, she remembers that trust was very important. Now as she is an adult, she can be happy that many of the students have her trust.

Ms. Carol Lownik and Project Focus

If you're having difficulty making a decision about your future after graduation, you're not alone. Many seniors face this problem every year. Ms. Carol Lownick is there to help seniors make their decisions. She runs the very effective program known as Project Focus, which has been here for two years.

For those of you who don't know exactly what Ms. Lownick does here, she provides college and career information for seniors who are in Level 2 Government classes. She is also available to all other seniors who need this information. Ms. Lownick says, "Student comments and data collected indicate it's been very effective." She also said that she loves it here and she is growing as the program grows.

In addition to helping high school students focus on the future, Ms. Lownick enjoys walking nature trails around the area, and she also takes karate.

Focus your eyes on Carol Lownik, The Project Focus Counselor.

Administration

Mr. Lowell Thomas

Hampton High School, one of the best in the nation and state, is a well-developed high school in athletics, academics, and superior student achievers. The backbone of this terrific school lies clearly upon the shoulders of the head principal, Mr. Lowell Thomas.

Many people believe that the only task in a principal's day is to discipline students. This being far from the truth as Mr. Thomas explains, "The job is hard but enjoyable. It is definitely not stress-free, but as long as you work with young people, you feel young." This does not mean there are no obstacles. In fact, he is faced with them everyday. Once, he came to the aid of a student that had been shot and another student with a superficial stab wound. But, part of Mr. Thomas's job is to keep HHS running in a safe and orderly fashion. "I'm here just to keep things working," comments Mr. Thomas.

Aside from HHS, Mr. Thomas is a loving and devoted father to two daughters and husband to his wife, Barbara. He enjoys wood working and he actually built a home in North Carolina using a guide.

Mr. Lowell Thomas has not only proved to be a great person and another exceptional addition to HHS, but his real accomplishments lie in the many excellent traditions that keep "Comin at Ya!"

Mr. Thomas presents the long awaited ring at the junior Ring Dance.

Mr. Lowell Thomas talks seriously about issues concerning Hampton High's students.

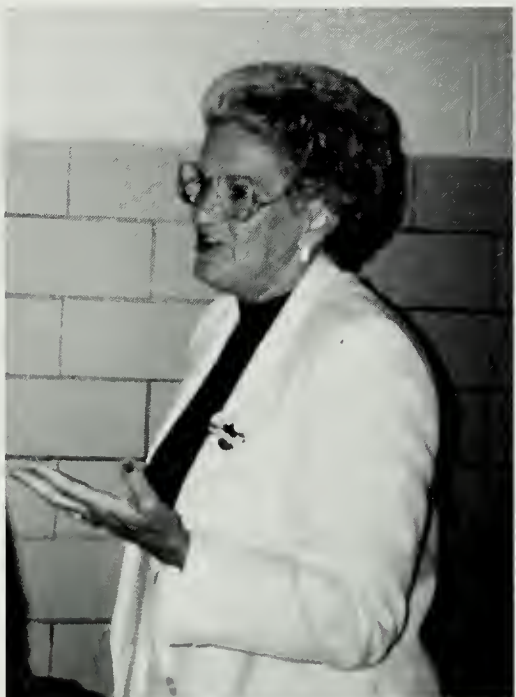

Mrs. Violet Williams

Mrs. Violet Williams, one of the three assistant principals at Hampton has had many unique experiences in Hampton High School. Her 23 years of experience enable her to hack away the many decisions she must face in her stressful day. Her main duties include developing and supplementing the master schedule, making sure Hampton has a credited program, and of course, disciplining students. Mrs. Williams admits, "I really don't like disciplining students, because it takes away from more important things."

Being in a male-dominated group does not make her focus drift a bit. Mrs. Williams maintains her own high expectations for Hampton and still pushes students to keep them achieving. "I chose administration because this gave me the avenue to reach more students, and allowed for more students to reach me," she states simply.

Mrs. Williams job is equally as stressful as the other principals, and in order to maintain sanity and avoid a serious breakdown, Mrs. Williams plays bridge and spends time with her four terrific grand-daughters.

Mrs. Williams provides an atmosphere for the students at Hampton to keep striving for their goals. And this creates another part of Hampton's winning tradition that keeps "Comin at Ya!"

Mrs. Williams takes a break from her busy schedule that has made her perfectly content for 23 years.

Mr. White is one of the many factors that establishes Hampton and its reputation.

Mr. Gordon White

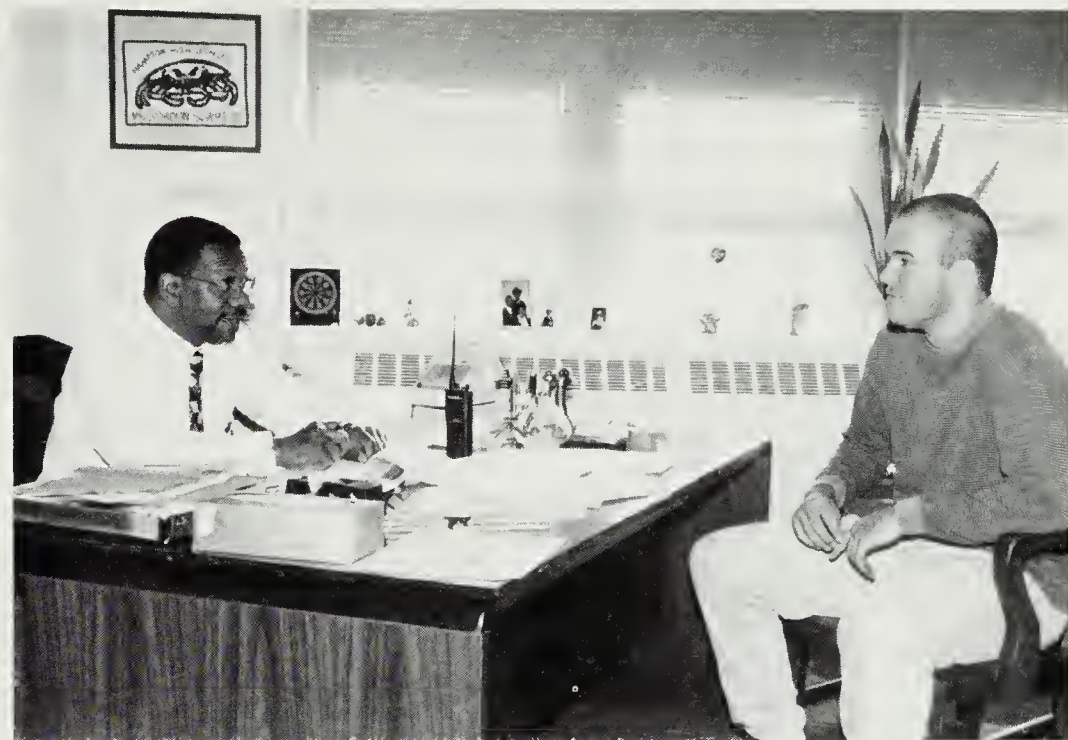

In that Mr. Gordon White, assistant principal at Hampton High School, has been an administrator for nine years, it's always such a surprise to see that huge smile on his face. He says, "I love the students and the people who make this school such a huge success."

Mr. White is in charge of student activities here at Hampton. He organizes and supports the activities that go on. He attends almost every sporting event and works 60 or some odd hours of the day.

Mr. White is also one of the many people who has the responsibility of making sure everything is going according to plan. And if things happen to go the wrong way, Mr. White is the first to fix it.

Mr. White's total devotion for the Hampton Crabbers is shown through his time spent around Crabbers every day. This total devotion is another tribute to the Crabber spirit that keeps "Comin at Ya!"

Aaron Melton laughs with Mr. White over a topic concerning HHS students.

Another important part of this staff is Mr. Harry Bennett. He has been assistant principal at Hampton High for the past two years. Mr. Bennett says his total experience at Hampton has been great. The students all carry a sense of loyalty to Hampton, the spirit is contagious.

Mr. Bennett enjoys his job very much and the privileges that accompany it. But, like other principals, Mr. Bennett has run into problems. "There is always that unknown quantity with trespassers coming in and out of the school."

Besides handing out suspensions and dealing with student violators, Mr. Bennett enjoys spending quality time with his two daughters. He also enjoys watching high school and college football / basketball games. It is also known that Mr. Bennett will stay up half the night glued to a good book.

Mr. Harry Benentt, assistant principal at Hampton High School, takes a well deserved break from his extremely busy schedule.

Deans

Working in the Dean of Girl's office is Ms. Barbara Wilson. Ms. Wilson describes her job title "Dean" as a support system. Though a dean is not considered to be an administrator, their job requires administrative duties. A dean is responsible for every aspect of attendance and the follow-up of disciplinary actions to those who violate the school policy. She handles the ninth and twelfth grade girls. A dean may issue detention, SIPS, or even suspension when needed.

The dean is learning to work with the new computerized method of attendance taking. Out with the hand written cards and in with the electronically scanned bar codes. It makes attendance keeping much easier.

After being dean for about thirteen years, Ms. Wilson has grown to like her job. "I wouldn't be here if I didn't," she replies. Though she enjoys her position as dean, it limits her to get to know only the violators and not the scholars. She has to make an extra effort to get to know the rest of the non-violating students here at school.

Coach Mike Smith, a foundation for which many of our traditions are based, has held the position of Dean of Boys for twenty four years. Each day, Coach Smith deals with tardy students, enforces the attendance policies, and handles the disciplinary problems for Freshmen boys.

The best thing that coach likes about his job is the fact that he "becomes well acquainted with most of the students." Not only is Mike Smith the dean of boys but he also coaches the boys' varsity football team to success every year. They made it to the Regional Finals this year before a depressing loss to Deep Creek making there overall record a well respected 11-1.

Both Deans work very hard to make sure everything runs smoothly. They need to be commended on the job they have done.

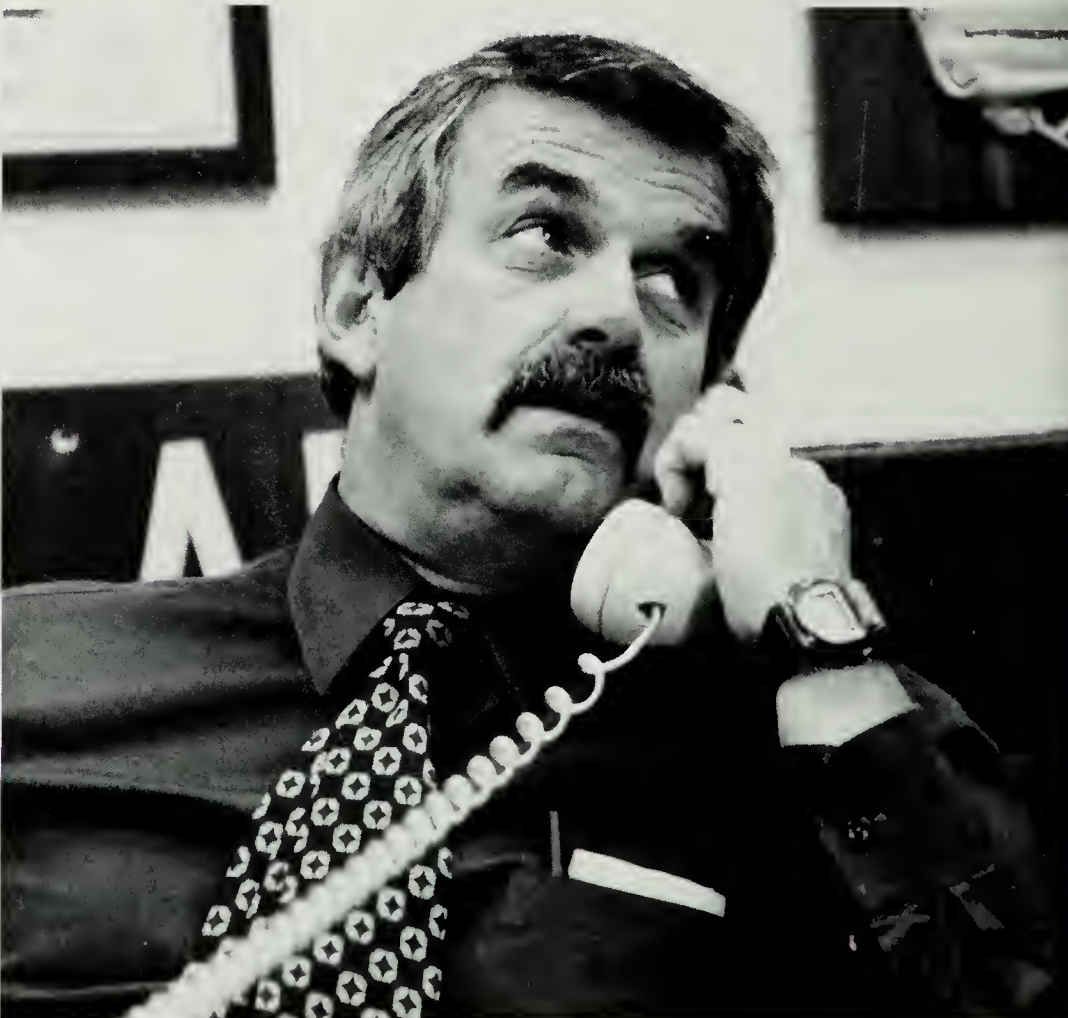

Coach Mike Smith is not only the Dean of Boys, but also the head coach for the Mighty Crabbers' football team.

Aaron Melton, Crabber offensive tackle confers with Coach in his office.

Mike Smith talks to a concerned parent about the attendance policy.

Here stands with pride the 7 counselors. Mrs Vickie Vaughan-Gill, Mrs Cindy Randall, Mrs Linda Leech, Mrs Carol Lownik, Mrs Olive Hopson and in the front we have Mr Ken Galloway, Mrs Maryann Sutton and Mrs Betty Davis.

Guidance, A Helping Hand

You are welcomed here any time for any reason. You are greeted by big eyes and smiles. The Guidance Department discusses things such as personal problems to getting ready for the "Real World."

We have seven counselors and one secretary. The counselors are Mrs Lynda Leech, Mrs. Olive Hopson, Mrs. Maryann Sutton, Dr. Vickie Vaughan-Gill, Mr. Ken Galloway, Mrs. Cindy Randall, Ms. Carol Lownik and Mrs. Betty Davis as the secretary. The Guidance Department is here for the main support of the students. Sometimes though they are here to assist the parents and the teachers with making it easier for them to talk to us.

Mrs. Betty Davis finishes up some work while conversating with a student.

Mrs. Cindy Randall and senior Kiesha Randall discuss the fun aspects of the college scene.

Maybe you should reconsider taking Journalism.

Mrs. Olive Hopson smiles as a student snaps her picture.

Dr. Vaughan-Gill speaks with T. Montague, a Marine Corp Recruiter.

Library Information Center

The Hampton High School Library is more than just books, tables and chairs. It is a place filled with technology and new education methods.

The women responsible for making the library run smoothly include: Mrs. Brownie Woodell, who aids in checking out the materials you need; Mrs. Connie Scott, takes charge in the audiovisual room and the computer lab; and Mrs. Star Wolven, who takes care of the primary section of the library.

Many new items can be found in the library this year. The two major things are the Networkable Newsbank on the Macintosh computers and the Encarta. The Encarta is a multimedia encyclopedia. It blends together videos, pictures, sound and text.

The librarians feel that more high powered machines need to be added to the library. With such machines, they believe that the library will become a more interesting place for students. In the future a lazer printer, and color printer hope to be added along with a Surf Internet which would be like an information highway from school to school. With so many new things on the way in the future, everyone is invited to come in the library and take advantage of all the new resources.

Mrs. Connie Scott is busy in charge of the library's computer lab at Hampton High.

"Books 'R' Us", says Mrs. Star Wolven as we enter the library to take her picture.

Below: After a long hard day of taking care of business our "office ladies" Mrs. Barbara Schultheiss (left) and Mrs. Marjorie Brannon (right) take a moment to relax.

Office Personnel\Data Processing

School days are not only for the students but also for the diligent ladies in the Hampton High School main office. Getting buisness taken care of is the job of Mrs. Marjorie Brannon, Mrs. Barbara Schultheiss, Mrs. Claudette Orie, and new to the staff this year, Mrs. Blanch Ingles and Mrs.. Diane Slater.

Mrs. Brannon, the principals secretary, and Mrs. Schultheiss are the ones who answer the phone, make copies of tests and school papers, keep school files type correspondence, and take care of the mail. They assist parents, teachers and students in any way they can.

Mrs. Orie the book-keeper keeps a list of all the school fees.

Mrs. Ingles and Mrs. Slater make things run smoothly in Data Processing. They deal with students' school records. schedules, progress reports and report cards. "The computers are easy to use. They help keep everything organized", says Mrs. Slater.

These ladies keep the school operations under control.

Mrs. Slater shows new employee Mrs. Ingles the ropes on the office computer.

Mrs. Brannon answers one of many calls that come through the office daily.

Mrs. Schultheiss explains the deal to an interested parent.

Custodians

There are seven very important people on the Hampton High School staff. They are the men and women who must keep this building clean, neat, and orderly every day. Led by Mr. Terry Pass, the custodians, Ms. Carrie Roberts, Ms. Mary Howard, Ms. Mary McCray, Mr. Willie Haynesworth and Mr. Claude Pope, arrive very early to be sure everything is in shipshape order before any other staff or any students begin their day. They are also "Sometimes it's alright, but sometimes it gets generally the last ones to leave at the end of the day. Mr. Haynesworth, one of the dayshift custodians says, a little hard. Overall, I like it and I wouldn't have it any other way. The only thing I'm lacking is a little more money." That seems to be the way that all of the custodians feel: they enjoy their jobs. Our custodians are some of the best in the world. Whatever they do from picking up trash, to opening our lockers, to rescuing a flooded floor, they do it with a smile.

Mr. J. Stallings takes a moment to relax and smile for the camera.

Mr. Willie takes time out to enjoy a drink.

Mr. Claude Pope Prepares to clean another mess.

Ms. Mary Howard and Ms. Mary McCray lay down their brooms to pose for this picture.

Cafeteria

A place students look forward to each day is a room filled with bare tables and empty seats. This room appears empty and dull, but at lunch time each day this room is transformed into a center for eating and socializing. The cafeteria is "comin' at ya" as the place students are allowed to relax and nourish their brains.

Several hard-working men and women are devoted to making and serving food and keeping the cafeteria clean. This group of dedicated individuals is the cafeteria staff.

This year the staff added a new item to the cafeteria. Members of the staff now wear new red and white uniforms.

Each day the cafeteria staff serves breakfast at 7:30 a.m., and it is always served with a smile. Then at 11:05 a.m. the staff again serves a well prepared meal to hundreds of hungry students. The meals are chosen from a menu which all Hampton City Schools must follow. All meals must be nutritious and well-balanced.

The cafeteria staff not only cooks and cleans, but serves students and faculty with a cheerful attitude. This attitude reflects the true Crabber spirit.

SPORTS

Varsity Football

The Hampton Crabber football team of 1994-95 did what everyone thought they couldn't do, win! And win they did, going undefeated in the regular season for the first time since 1985. The Crabbers started off the season against city rival Kecoughtan 34-28. The Crabbers then defeated three undefeated teams Menchville, Bethel, and Tabb in consecutive weeks to go 5-0 at the midway point in the season. Hampton completed a sweep of the Newport News schools by defeating Denbigh, Warwick, and Ferguson behind the offensive firepower of Freshman Quarterback Ronald Curry and a strong running game. Curry had this to say about his season "I liked the first year of my varsity career being with people like Carlos Ford and Noel Rainey made it a special season". Although the Crabbers were 8-0 there were still many disbelievers out there and public sentiment was that the Phoebus game would provide the Crabbers with their first true challenge of the season. The game was surrounded with a lot of hype and come game time the fans weren't disappointed. The Crabbers once again rallied from behind to tie the game at 14-14 and send it into an overtime victory. On the following Friday evening the Crabbers defeated Gloucester 58-6 to finish out the regular season a perfect 10-0.

In the first round of the playoffs the Crabbers faced the Bookers of Booker T. Washington. The Crabbers were victorious behind a strong running game led by Chris Ricks. The victory marked the first time in two years the Crabbers had advanced past the first round of the playoffs and into the Eastern Region Championship.

The Crabbers then faced the Deep Creek Hornets who were 11-0, which marked the first time ever two undefeated teams would play for the Eastern Region Championship. The game was an offensive battle with neither team's defense able to stop the other team's offense. The Hornets won the game in the final seconds with a controversial touchdown catch that ended the Crabber's season. This was a team which was small in stature but large at heart, and will go down in Crabber history as the team who couldn't, but did and brought back CRABBER PRIDE!

Coaches Alvis Mann and Mike Smith give the signal for yet another touchdown for the Crabbers.

J.V Football

The J.V. football team worked hard this season to keep Crabber Pride alive in the halls of our school. Although their record (4-5) does not reflect a winning season, the Crabber football players and coaching staff worked hard all season.

Coach Joel Gray responded to the season by saying, "This season we lacked the physical talent that we've had in previous years, yet many of our kids have the potential to grow into great football players."

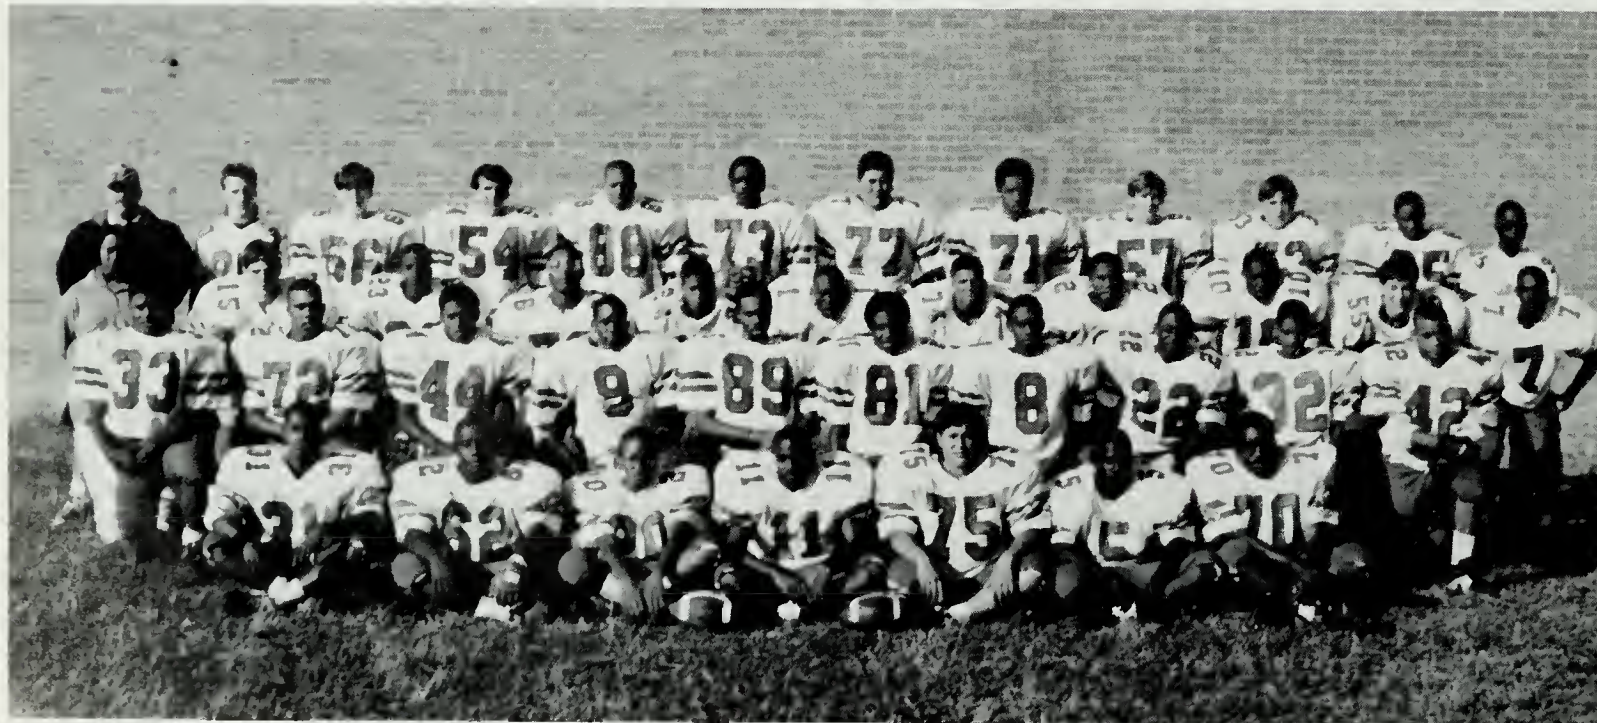

Crabber Pride is defined with hard work, dedication, and commitment. These were qualities that were possessed by all of the J.V. players. Coach Gray helped many of the J.V. Crabbers prepare themselves for the big step up to the varsity level. Jermane Crawford said, "Our coaching staff really worked hard with us this year; unfortunately, we came up short, but we learned a lot in the process. We learned to win and lose, but most importantly we learned the meaning of Crabber pride."

JV Cheerleaders

Hampton High School is well known for its superior athletic program and year after year, the JV program excels in producing strong attitudes and determination needed to lead to a Varsity career. The JV cheerleaders have worked hard to prepare routines for games, pep rallies, and assemblies, and to obtain Crabber spirit among their fellow classmates.

The JV cheerleaders started their long road of success with early morning practices this summer. They learned cheers and practiced a routine for cheerleading camp which was held at the University of Virginia. By competing there, the Crabber JV squad won numerous blue ribbons and spirit sticks. They also qualified for the top JV T.E.A.M. award. Each of the JV cheerleaders applied a unique character and personality which combined them as a whole and created a great experience of teamwork.

After returning home it was back to business as usual. The JV squad chose captains and underwent their football and basketball seasons. They devoted a lot of time to improving their jumps, arm motions, stunts, and working up to an impressive level. Practicing every day, the JV cheerleaders sacrificed much time and energy to put together sharp cheers and excellent stunts to excite the JV football and basketball crowds.

The JV cheerleaders had a long and productive season in which they accomplished many goals. One of these was proving that cheerleaders are another superior part of the athletic program that keeps "Comin at Ya'!"

Girls' Tennis

The girls' tennis team, coached by Ms. Trish Mitchell, has improved their record from last year to 1-11 this year. "The girls put 100% effort into every match they played," said Coach Mitchell.

The top five players were freshman Chene Williams, junior Anna Abbott, senior Lisa Alexander, sophomore Laura Tanner, and sophomore Talley Spain.

Senior Lisa Alexander feels, "We all kind of slacked off this year. Maybe if the team had practiced a little more, we could have been more successful. However, we did have a lot of fun and everyone got along. Overall, I'm proud of how I played. This was the most successful year I've had."

Golf

Although no members of the golf team advanced as far as the regional tournament, the team feels that they had a fun and productive season. The season began on August 18 at the Woodlands and finished on October 11 at Sleepy Hole. The team consists of seniors Mike Cobb, Stephen Westphal, and Alex Worster and sophomore Curtis Patrick.

The coach of the golf team is Mr. Victor Hamilton, who completed his fourth year of coaching the team. "Toward the end of the season the team improved.

There was a mixture between the four players, and we had a lot of fun," states Coach Hamilton. He adds, "It was especially good to see how the seniors have matured over the last four years."

Senior Stephen Westphal says, "We had trouble finding players, but overall we had a good year."

Senior Alex Worster adds, "I feel we had a fun and enjoyable season."

Coach Hamilton concludes, "Golf is a lifetime sport; kids shouldn't feel down if students talk about them playing golf."

Cross Country

A month before school started, the hard work and dedication began for the Cross Country team. Before many people have awakened, the team has been on the road running miles as early as six o'clock in the morning.

The Girls Cross Country team has been very strong. Top runners are Senior Lasheta Redmond, Junior Chenille Cook, and Sophomore Sharla Rhea. Additional team strength was supplied by LaVerne Hunter, Amanda Shawgo, Dorthya Shuler, Alicia Rich, Jeanette Stone, and Tinisa McDonald. The girls are coached by Ms. Karen Holley.

The Boys team runners are Phillip Massengill, Jason Ward, Doug Paxson, Jose Pettaway, Brian Ison, and Thelonius Cook, with the team management of Jason Williamson.

"It was a wonderful year and I enjoyed coaching a great group of people. The season was positive and turned out very well," stated Coach Herman Daniel.

INDOOR TRACK

This year the indoor track team has worked through the great pains of training to beat some tough competitors. The team was real young and very talented with great potential for future success in the coming State track meets. Some of Hamptons' outstanding runners are seniors Lasheta Redmond, Jose Pettaway, Jason Ward, and Toby Henry. Other exceptional runners are Jeremy Ward, Chris Ricks, Chenille Cook, Kiona Sledge, Leslie Barnett, and Kianga Lee.

"This year I have gotten stronger and excelled to state competition," stated Pettaway. Jose' Pettaway along with Jason Ward, Phillip Massengill and Toby Henry, traveled to James Madison University to run in the State track meet where they came in second place. At the previous Regional track meet the four of them came in first place for the two-mile relay and broke the school record and meet record with the time of 8.09. At the state track meet, the 4x400 meter relay team placed first and broke the meet record.

Varsity Boys Basketball

This year's Varsity basketball team had a somewhat successful year with a record of 19-5. They will lose six promising seniors which Coach Brower said, "were the back bone of the team." The six seniors consisted of Jonathan "The Bake" Baker who was the team's leading scorer with a fifteen point average, Vincent "Dunkathon" Bryson who was the second leading scorer with a fourteen point average, Rodney "Hot Rod" Hall, John "Give me that Rebound" Galbreath, Noel "Thriller" Rainey, and Tabin "Don't call me Shaq" Garrett. The juniors consisted of Chris Fox, James Harris, and Cedric Brower. The sophomores were Antwan Sinclair with Ahmad Hawkins coming up from time to time. Ronald Curry was the team's lone freshman.

The Crabbers bright spot of the season was winning the Fort Eustis Christmas Tournament and a one thousand dollar scholarship for the seniors. Jonathan Baker and Rodney Hall made the All-Tournament team with Rodney Hall capturing the MVP honors.

The Crabbers made it to the finals of the District tournament before being defeated. Nevertheless, Ronald Curry and Jonathan Baker made the All-Tournament team, with Jonathan Baker winning the MVP award, despite the Crabbers losing efforts.

Girls Varsity Basketball

Coach David Six reinforces the game plan during a timeout.

The Lady Crabbers have definitely come a long way. The season, the Ladies made their second consecutive Regional appearance and made school history by being the first Lady Crabbers basketball team to make an appearance at state.

The Crabbers ended the season with a remarkable 25-6 record. Senior Nakesha Gilliam said, "We couldn't have asked for a better season. State was definitely a terrific experience."

Coach David Six said, "The girls really did a good job this year. They were more aggressive and did not accept defeat. We had a lot of step up and that really helped. I'm proud of each one of them."

This year's team was led by Stephanie Hicks, Shanda Bailey, and Waynetta Vewney. Though those three seniors led the Lady Crabbers, it was the play of Ctrina Fenell and LaToya Lassiter that pulled the Lady Crabbers to the State Semifinals tournament.

JV Boys Basketball

J.V. boys had another successful year. Although their record, 11-7, doesn't show it, the players learned "how to play as a team and never give up," says Bobby Blizzard.

Returning from last year's 17-1 squad were Nelson Patterson, Aaron Chambliss, Chris Weeks, Willie McCloud, Bobby Blizzard, and Ahmad Hawkins. They were assisted by some new faces in Derrick Gatling, Otis Howard, Renard Watson, Charlie Duckett, Mareus Hamilton, Buch Evans, Josh Wheeler, and Jeff Simmons.

The team was composed of two eighth graders, eleven ninth graders, and two tenth graders. According to Ahmad Hawkins, "With less mistakes and more concentration, the JV Crabbers could have easily improved their record."

The leading scorer, Coach David Blizzard's son, Bobby, had a total of 252 points, averaging 14 points per game. The second and third leading scorers were Aaron Chambliss with 155, and Nelson Patterson with 154; with a combined effort, the team scored 51 points per game and had a strong finish.

Swimming

The swim season was filled with many exciting moments. These Crabbers were led by team captains Anna Abbott and Tabitha Montgomery.

This team did exceptionally well to have lost so many of their strong swimmers last year and to have gained so many young swimmers this year.

The girls' team finished up the season with a record of 2-8 overall. The boys' team finished at 1-9. One of the record breaking stand-outs was Brandon Wood who broke two school records in the 50 free-style with a time of 23.30 seconds and 58.88 in the 100 fly. He was one of the many contributing to the boys' success.

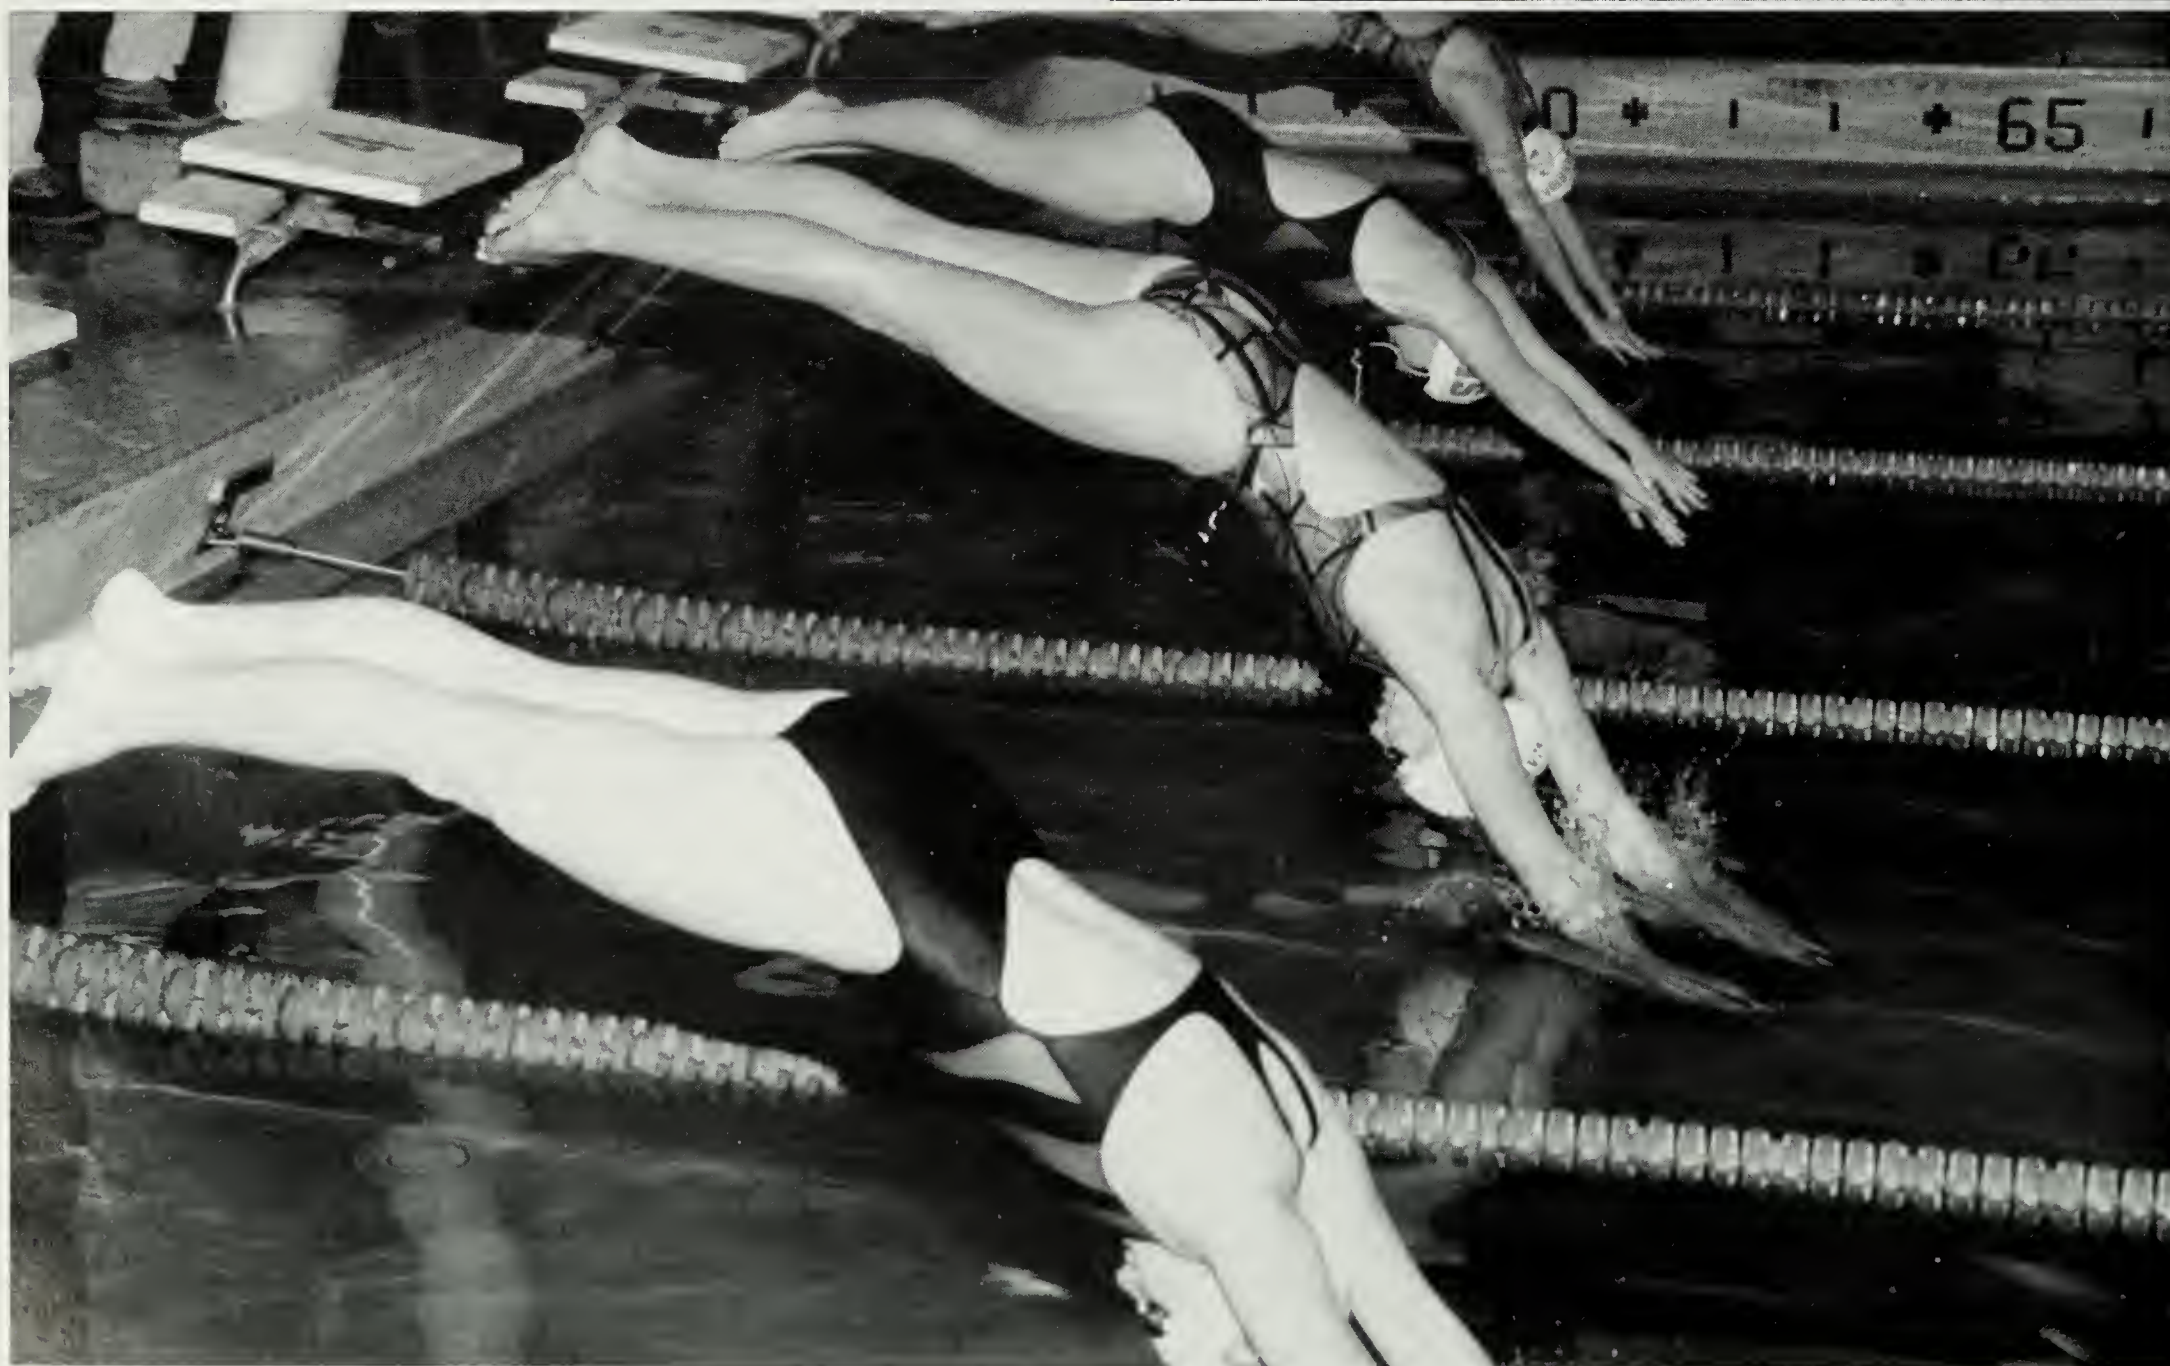

"Hampton's swim team has a lot of growing to do. I think that Coach Suzanne Wilson and Coach Tony Carlson can make the team very competitive next year," stated team member Shaun Redd.

Gymnastics

What's the sorriest team in Hampton High sports? Gymnastics, right? NOT! The gymnastics team had a sensational year in '95! This was the team's second year coached by Wendy Turner and practicing at Gymnastics Incorporated. Juniors Elena Frew and Michelle Roane, and freshman Amy Huffman were the strong points of the team. The gymnasts truly pulled together and motivated themselves at the right time and placed fourth in Districts.

Michele Roane and Elena Frew advanced to Regionals; Elena Frew placed eight on bars and advanced to State. She had a total score of 35.85.

So, watch out for the Hampton High School Gymnastics team... they keep "Comin' at Ya!"

Wrestling

Although the 1994-1995 Hampton High School wrestling team, coached by first-year coach David Minns, did not have an overall winning season record, the team did have many individual standouts. Several wrestlers went on to compete in Regional and State competition including Randy Devlin, Eric Thompson, and Evan Brockwell.

The season began in December 3 at Menchville and on December 6, wrestlers participated in the Newport News Christmas Invitational Tournament. The Crabbers then made a showing in the Virginia Duals in January at the Hampton Coliseum. The regular season ended on January twenty-first with a quad meet with Gloucester, Deep Creek, and Norview Highschools.

Three wrestlers Randy Devlin, Eric Thompson, and Evan Brockwell competed in the Regional championships because of a District qualification. In Regionals Eric Thompson and Randy Devlin both won the regional crown as Evan Brockwell placed fourth. These finishes sent the wrestlers to the the State tournament on March 3 and 4.

And the Spirit Award Goes to...

Hampton's Varsity Cheerleaders!

In years passed the Varsity Cheerleaders have spent their time trying to gain the respect and excellence that all athletes desire.

Although many do not consider cheerleading a sport, the Varsity Cheerleaders continue to prove many wrong with consistent competition achievements, hard work and dedication, awesome endurance, strength, and super abilities. But their most recognizable trait is the tremendous school spirit and support these girls give to other Hampton High teams.

Every year the new Varsity Cheerleading squad brings something special and different into the season, something that the squad before did not possess. This year's Varsity Cheerleading squad has established ground-breaking progress. The stunts have greater difficulty; the motions are stronger; the formations are cleaner, and the spirit is louder than ever.

These girls possess strong dedication and put in a great amount of effort and energy so that they ensure that the job will get done. Many have seen these girls strut their stuff to perfection at pep rallies, football, and basketball games, but most are unaware of what goes on behind the scenes. The long early morning practices, camp, and afternoon practices are entirely overlooked. The Varsity Cheerleaders practice stunts, motions, and formations over and over until they are perfect. They also run, do sit ups, tucks, sprints, jumping jacks, leg lifts, and then stretch properly every day to stay in tip top condition.

The Varsity Cheerleaders are a group of hard working and devoted young women that take what they do very seriously and they want to fit into the Hampton athletic program.

Varsity Cheerleading coach, Mrs. Kathi Driver has done a superb job establishing the meaning of what Hampton High Cheerleading is today. She has put respect, dedication, and athletic ability back into the sport here at Hampton High. Coach K. supports all of her girls and she pushes them to reach their full potential. Coach K. knows that practice can sometimes be long and exhausting, but she also knows that all of the energy that is focused will pay off in the end.

This year's squad's desire to be great has definitely paid off and their spirited souls do not go unnoticed here at Hampton High. This school would not be the same without their bright smiles and friendly attitudes. Whoever has seen Cheerleading at Hampton High has seen the best.

CLUBS

Student Aides

The Student aides at Hampton High work hard in the guidance office, deans' offices, and for the teachers. They type, answer the phone, and run various types of errands. Dean Barbara Wilson says, "I can't survive without my student aides. They're our eyes, legs, and our information officers. They do so much for us."

Lisa Alexander admits, "The guidance counselors and the deans run you to death."

April Tibbs adds, "You learn a lot of office techniques and it's a great experience." To become a student aide, a student must have an open period and fill out an application to be approved and accepted.

KEYETTES

The Keyettes, sponsored by Mrs. Johanna Carpenter, have accomplished outstanding feats this year. This year's officers are: Xanthia Johnson, president; April Huffman, vice-president; Anna Abbott, secretary; Annette Bisbee, parliamentarian; and Wendy Crocker, treasurer. Along with many fundraisers such as the Cake Raffle held in mid-October where raffle tickets were sold for $.25 in a chance to win baked goods, they also helped to raise money by selling tickets for the Wythe Pancake Jamboree and Value check-books that contained discounts for many different businesses such as resturants, hotels, and parks.

The Keyettes also raised money and collected cans to help a needy family for Thanksgiving. They also participated in the Habit for Humanity project which helped to build a home for a needy family. Volunteer Keyettes went to a house in Newport News one Saturday morning to help paint and work on the structure of the house.

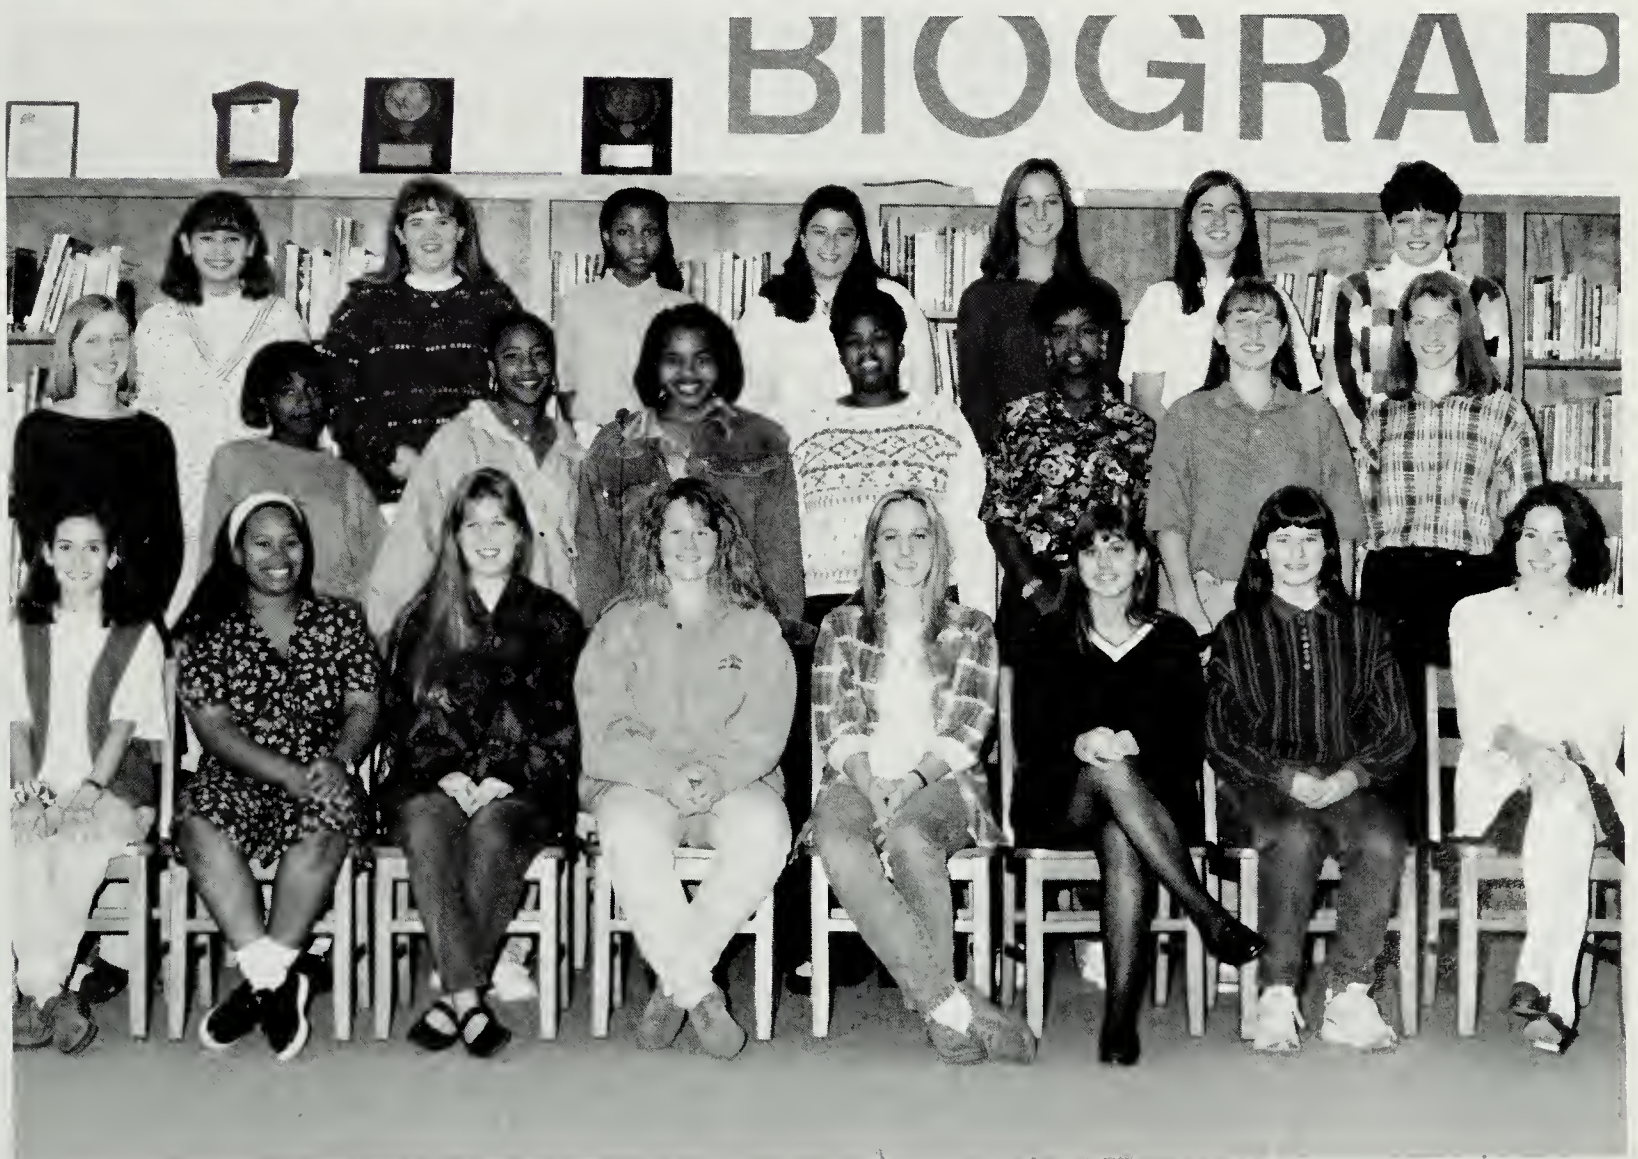

They also had Secret Pals that were revealed in December. All semester they gave gifts to their own personal pals and gave one big gift on the special revealing day. They were given new Secret Pals at the beginning of the second semester to be revealed in May.

A Progressive Dinner was also held. In the Progressive Dinner, all of the Keyettes went to one person's house and had appetizers; the next house had the main dish; the next had the dessert and at the last house, Secret Pals were revealed.

Whether seriously working in the community, helping to lead in the school, or entertaining themselves, the Keyettes have been an intense force.

The purpose of this Art Honor Society is to recognize those students who have shown outstanding art ability in their art class. Also, "to foster excellence and a dedicated spirit to the pursuit of art," says art teacher and sponsor Ms. Janet Rash. Coach Alvis Mann also sponsors the group.

Ms. Janet Rash has selected new members for this year. They are: Rosina Oliver, Kevin Burden, and Kendra Boykin.

The main purpose of this club is to help make the school a more beautiful place. The Art Honor Society makes murals around the school. They also try to enhance the showcases and add life to the building.

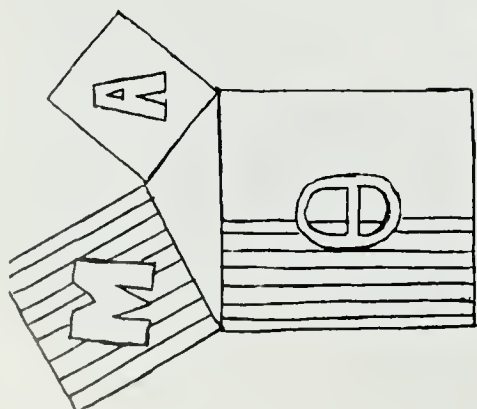

Mu Alpha Theta

Mu Alpha Theta enjoys another year as the honor society for mathematics. National sponsors are the Math Association of America and the National Council of Teachers of Math.

The primary purpose of MAT is to promote achievement in and among high school students.

Members are selected and must maintain a "B" average in math, have completed Algebra II, and demonstrate initiative and reliability.

Members participate in tutoring programs and other activities. Sponsor of the group is Mrs. Carolyn Holmes.

KRABBA / KRABBA HIGHLIGHT

Perservance does pay ! Under the leadership of Mrs. Mary Waters d Mrs. Gwen Parker, the journalism department was re-born a few years ago. Beginning with a few students in one class period, the journalism department has grown to more than a hundred students in six classes, taking Journalism I, II, III and Yearbook. Yearbook subscriptions have risen from 250-750; the number of ads has more than doubled; issues of the newspaper have grown from one to eight.

In addition to producing the yearbook , these students manage to produce a newspaper each month except for January. They also prepare a news magazine in March and a supplement to the yearbook in early June. Staying busy is an understatement when describing what these students do on a daily basis. When they are not busy writing a copy for one of the publications, they are spreading a positive reputation about the two publications.

The journalism classes must sell ads and candy, and do any other fundraisers to cover the publication of the yearbook and the monthly newspaper. Conducting fundraisers becomes second nature to the students and sponsors who must constantly come up with new ways to pay the bills. Hard work and determination are the only things that keep the journalism department together.

Not only do students learn the financial responsibilities of publication, but they learn the process of print journalism from the very basic steps to the intricate process of investigative reporting. Every job of a real operation must be assumed by a student in the program.

Co-sponsored by Mrs. Waters and Mrs. Gwen Parker, journalism is the best of both worlds as an elective and as a extracurricular activity where every student is a valuable part of the whole program.

COE

In order to learn responsibilities and make a smart career choices, students join Cooperative Office Education. Coordinated by Mrs. Nancy Pearce, it serves to place students in an office environment within the community. The students receive resourceful office training with pay.

The requirements consist of being enrolled in information/word processing, and having a grade of "C" or above. Interested students must have completed two years of business courses between their freshman and junior years. The senior then is allowed to leave school during fifth and sixth periods to report to work.

Allowing students to work at the entry level as an extension of the classroom instruction; C. O. E. enables students to get two to three credits with pay. Office training is planned, coordinated, and supervised by the C.O.E. coordinator and the employer.

DECA

DECA is an organization for marketing students that provides opportunities for its members to develop leadership skills in marketing and management. With the new course, Classroom on the Mall at Coliseum Mall, DECA welcomed many new members. The Virginia DECA Reporter Katherine Curtis, and District Vice-President Brandy Gravely started the year by attending the State Leadership Development Institute at James Madison University.

In September Shamel Sykes was elected president, in October twenty four members attended the District Leadership Conference. New members were initiated at a luncheon, who modeled in the fashion show in November. December was a busy month. DECA members manned the Little Mall booth at the Coliseum Mall and worked with the Salvation Army, filling 80 stockings and help distribute angel tree gifts. In February district competition was held with the winners going on to compete at the state competition in March. Members will represent the school at the Career Development Conference at St. Louis, Missouri in May.

The Technology Student Association, or TSA club, promotes leadership and personal growth in a technical world. Sponsored by Mr. Herman Daniels and with Doug Paxson, as president, the club provides students the opportunity to meet and work with business and industry leaders, earn recognition and prestige, and develop leadership skills. TSA's goal is technological literacy to prepare students to compete in our global society.

TSA

The TSA club teaches students the use of systems, problem solving, and decision making skills that they will need for use in complex technologies. Students learn about the development of technology and its impact on society, while enhancing their knowledge and exposure to the study of technology. TSA provides knowledge and skills that will help students secure a job and advance in the technological job world.

VICA

Preparing leaders in the world of work is the goal of the VICA club. VICA stands for Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. The VICA club members consist of students from metal classes, ICT, WECEP, or EFE. Its sponsors, Mr. Ron Holloman and Mrs. Barbara Blackwell continue their monthly honoring of unsung heroes.

VICA sponsors, along with members, also distributed Christmas stockings to needy families through the Salvation Army. This year, members also volunteered to help the Salvation Army receive the completed Christmas stockings.

FBLA

FBLA FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA
PHI BETA LAMBDA

The purpose of FBLA, Future Business Leaders of America, is to encourage and promote active members to develop vocational and career-supportive competencies. This also helps to promote civic and personal responsibilities as well as business education for the youth of Virginia. To join FBLA you must first be enrolled in a business class. Also, there is a fee of.

FBLA has many projects during the year. In September, they held a membership drive. They also helped sponsor the "Dime's Worth of Difference" drive, benefitting the United Way during the first semester. Homecoming events filled the month of October, and in November, FBLA members contributed their time in the project "Sharing," helping the Riverside Convalescent Home. Members also prepared themselves for spring competitions. They also participated in the service project, "Giving," which involves giving to needy families.

FBLA is a co-curricular organization whose activities are an integral part of the industrial program. To be an effective business leader, one must first realize the most important person is him or herself.

AIR FORCE J.R.O.T.C.

As a member of J.R.O.T.C., cadets will have something that will last well beyond their high school years. The corps are dedicated to shaping today's youth into tomorrow's leaders. This is accomplished by instilling the qualities that are essential for success in any career: leadership, integrity, loyalty, and a sense of honor.

Each year the corps of cadets participates in a number of community service projects which include raising money for the Alzheimer's Association, providing Christmas decorations for the local veterans hospital, collecting food and clothing for the homeless, and participating in a variety of service projects around the school. In addition to these service projects, the Color Guard presents the flags for the home football and basketball games. The cadets also sell programs at these games for the athletic department.

The R.O.T.C. Honor Guard Drill Team, Armed Drill Team, and Color Guard have competed in some very important school competitions such as North Carolina State and Randolph Macon Military Academy. It is these activities that instill the discipline values that last a life time.

Col. Fred Repaskey in his fourth year and Sgt. Nanay Brown in her fifth year, lead the cadets towards excellence.

The squadron bears its colors in the Homecoming Parade.

Military Ball

The Hampton High School Air Force Junior R.O.T.C. unit held its annual Military Ball on March 4 at Langley A.F.B. Community Activity Center. The theme song for the ball was "On Bended Knees" by Boys II Men. The ball began at 8:00 p.m. and lasted until 11:30.

The highlight of the evening was when CDT. Mark Pacheco and CDT. Aubri Ames, both Senior Corps. members, were crowned King and Queen. Other Senior members of the court were CDT. Chiquita Womble escorted by CDT. Christopher Johnson, and CDT. Genevieve Jones escorted by CDT. Tramaine Wickham. "Everyone seemed to be having a great time, and it will truly be a night all the cadets and guests will remember," said CDT. Chiquita Womble.

Corps. instructors Col. Fred Repasky and Msgt. Nancy Brown, along with the military ball committee, led by sophomore CDT. Crystal Greene, coordinated a memorable night to remember.

Academic Team

The Academic Team is a club sponsored by Mr. Tom Bell that competes with different high schools from around the city, district, and country in a battle for knowledge. Students display a knowledge of what they have learned through their years of school. The team plays other teams through questions and answers displayed in a game type form.

The Academic Team will be participating in the Academic Bowl this year which will be held at the School Administration Center, and it will be televised as it happens.

America has a serious problem that all students need to be educated and concerned about. The Antaeus Society is a club that is determined to do exactly this. Antaeus has been informing others of the problems that have been facing students for a while. In addition to starting a recycling program, the group serves in the community. Members have contributed to many food drives and also to the Angel Tree by adopting two needy children. They have continued school beautification and environmental education through the whale and beach clean-ups.

Antaeus has received recognition by winning first place in the State in the "Keep Virginia Beautiful" contest and were honored for their environmental education program and community efforts.

The Antaeus Society has supported various fundraisers pertaining to the environment, including T-shirts and Crabberware.

The Antaeus Society has exemplified to others that our earth should not concern just one group, but everyone.

Features

Business Partners

Hampton High school is very fortunate to be assisted by several business partners. Siemen's Automotive, Inc., Todd's Lane Veterinary Hospital, and Hampton University Museum all contribute a lot of time and effort into creating a good learning environment as well as helping students grow to be successful.

These business partners help Hampton with more than just funding. Siemen's Automotive, Inc. provides many opportunities for the students. Field trips, tours, internships, and even summer jobs are provided. Siemen's Automotive, Inc. has been very helpful in providing students with incentives for doing well in school. Siemen's Automotive, Inc. gave a lot of input, helping start the successful PRIDE program. This program was set up to recognize students' achievements. They also helped disabled students fund the WIN Program, which is prepare them for the working world.

Todds Lane Veterinary Hospital is another one of Hampton's business partners. Dr. David Brinker talked to several classes and students interested in the field of veterinary medicine. To make this a true partnership journalism students help out by recycling newspapers and donating them to the hospital to be used as litter for the cages.

The newest business partner is the Hampton University Museum. Personnel from the museum give lectures and tours featuring the field of art. H.U. has been very cooperative in creating new and vast learning experiences.

Hampton High School is grateful for the partners who provided students with valuable learning and growing experiences.

Dr. David Brinker hoists his patients onto the examination table.

James Kahley admires one of Dr. Brinker's patients.

WIN

The WIN Program was created in September 1992 to give students with special needs vocational and educational experiences in employment, independent living, and becoming productive citizens of the community. Siemen's Automotive, Inc. is a supporting business and education partner for WIN.

Some WIN students are getting work experiences at the following places: Mallory and Aberdeen Elementary schools as teachers' assistants; in the print shop at Pentran; and at the Old Hampton Community Center.

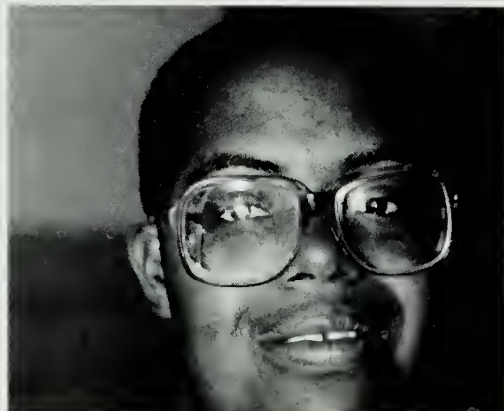

The WIN sponsors, Mrs. Denise Foster, Freda Gist, Mrs. Pam Cook, Mrs. Brenda Oglesby, and Mrs. Barbara Blackwell planned holiday plant sales with help from the McDonald's Garden Center. The Garden Center donated the plants and materials for the fundraiser. The WIN program also adopted the Help House, where they helped families in need.

With great sponsors and students, the WIN program has accomplished more, and given more than they ever imagined.

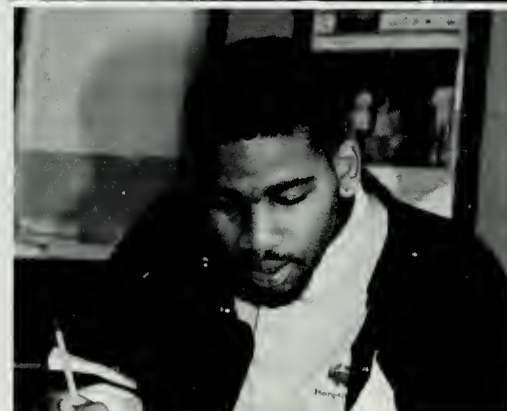

The WIN students, along with Mrs. Vi Williams and Mrs. Brenda Oglesby gather around as they work on their next holiday plant sale. Selling plants during the holidays was their main fundraiser for the year.

Classroom on the Mall

Something new and exciting has been added to the curriculum called Classroom on the Mall, and it is a huge success!

Classroom on the Mall is a Cooperative Education Marketing class that not only gives students the opportunity to gain work experience with their career interest, but also prepares the students for the work force. Students work on communication skills, sales, and human relations, all of which prove to be extremely valuable in preparing them for today's work world.

The program allows the students to earn three credits. The students must be enrolled in a marketing class and work 500 hours, 15-20 hours a week, in a marketing business that has been approved for the entire school year. The class meets Monday through Thursday in the Coliseum Mall for an hour and ten minutes.

Eligibility requirements must be met, which include being a high school senior, with no less than a "C" average. Students also must be able to leave school early to attend the class and must possess good work ethics and communication skills.

Tasha Mackey, Shalonda Davis, Shalonda Freeman, Marnalela Smith, Alesia Ricks, Berne Brandon, and Maleka Copling attend a classy luncheon at the Chamberlin Hotel. Luncheons are only one the many exciting things they get to enjoy in this class.

Hampton High is the only school in the District to implement this type of educational program. Mrs. Peggy Christian, the Program Coordinator, is very excited about the success of the program. "I think it has done better than I ever expected, and I am pleased with the merchants and their cooperativeness at the Coliseum Mall."

Mrs. Christian is not the only one excited this program. The students also voice their positive reactions to their experiences. "It gives us a sense of responsibility," says Shunaic McEachern. Tonia Copling adds, "The fun part is going to New York."

Classroom on the Mall is an innovative idea that allows "hands-on" class experience while instilling students with good work ethics and preparing them for the future. This program has been such a success for the students that other schools in the district are expected to participate next year.

Drama Production

Hard work and dedication paid off when the drama department presented "A Quiet Place" on January 19 and 20.

The award-winning script dealt with the realities of the peer pressures teens must face every day involving drugs. The play opened with a girl, Shelia, sitting alone in a cemetery. It was later revealed that her friend, Danny, had died from a combination of drugs and alcohol. At the end of the play Shelia confronted the kids who had pressured Danny into using drugs.

Mr. Rick Allison and Ms. Mary

Gaus directed the play. The lead role, Shelia, was played by Lizz Palmer. Freshman Kris Fawkes made his debut as David. The role of Janet was played by freshman Laura Hanley. Playing in his third production with the Thespians was sophomore Brent Palmer as Tony. Sophomore Lauren Redd played the part of Patsy. Freshman Anthony Wright made his debut as Steve. The role of Pam was played by Senior Sara Simmons.

"The play came together well. We hope to do even better with our next production in the spring," stated Sara Simmons.

Student Jobs

Many students' days extend beyond the average 8:05 to 2:35 day that most students have. For some students, the day extends into the early evening or night. After-school jobs and weekend jobs add to the existing stresses of high school life; however, the long hours pay off when pay day comes around. The extra cash comes in handy on the weekends and when one feels the need to treat himself to something special.

On the other hand, jobs teach responsibility. One is expected to be prompt and to successfully fulfill his or her obligations. This isn't always an easy task; many students have to work on week ends and miss out on school activities and social events. And although the money is nice for extra spending, a lot of students must work to help support their families. Now, the issue becomes not one of having money to go out on Friday and Saturday night, but one of putting food on the table.

Any way one looks at it, having a job while going to school is sometimes difficult and stressful, but the long term advantages are definitely worth it. One not only gets the opportunity to earn money and meet people, but also to learn valuable lessons that he or she can use for the rest of his or her life.

"Here I am, working at JC Penney, enjoying the work and helping the customers." Kahla Lewis is very enthusiastic about her work.

Ring Dance '94

The Hampton High junior class held the traditional Ring Dance in December. This event is definitely one of the most exciting points of 1994, because the class of '96 was finally presented their eagerly awaited class rings.

The dance began at 8:00 p.m., Friday, December 9. Most juniors arrived at the North Hampton Community Center at 8:30 to be fashionably late. At 9:00 p.m. the ceremony began with sponsor Mrs. Danielle Smith giving the welcome, and Forrest Black introducing the junior class officers. Following the introduction of officers, the history of the ring was read by Erica Fields, and the acknowledgements were given by the class president Shaun Redd. Finally the class rings were given out.

There couldn't be more excitement in one room than there was that night. However, the excitement was still not over. The crowning of the prince and princess was to be completed. Chris Ricks and Tameka Pittman were crowned by Principal Mr. Lowell Thomas, Mrs. Becky Dillard, and Mrs. Danielle Smith, the class sponsors.

As the theme song played, the class of '96 danced the night away. Although most juniors wished the night would never end, by midnight only "a ribbon in the sky" was to remain.

Class president Shaun Redd is the first to receive his class ring.

Luke Wheeler and Anna Abbott pose for their Ring Dance pictures.

Holly McNamara and Joshua Wilson receive King Dance memorabilia before entering the dance.

Kim Saunders, Micah Bird, Felisha Page, Catheryn Shuler, Michelle Santiful, and Latisha Miller compare rings.

Chris Ricks and Tameka Pittman enjoy the night as prince and princess.

Hampton High Students dance the night away at the Valentine's Dance.

Valentine's Dance

The Valentine Dance, benefiting the Hampton Marquee was held on Saturday February 11, 1995 at the Langley Rec Center. The dance was sponsored by the Journalism Staff and the Senior Class. There was a D.J., refreshments, and lots of dancing and all it cost was $5.00 a person. The profits from the dance were divided by the Journalism Staff, the Senior Class, and the Hampton Marquee; however the Journalism Staff donated all their profits to the marquee.

At the dance Kristie Skelton and Sara Simmons tied for Senior Sweetheart Queen.

The Senior Class also had a special table set up to raise money for upcoming events. You had your choice to buy a carnation for your sweetheart, win a Valentine bear by tossing a coin in a bowl or win a prize by throwing darts at the Valentine's heart.

The dance earned over several thousand dollars. The Journalism staff and Senior Class would like to thank Crums Bakery for donating our Valentine Cake.

Hall Of Fame

The best of the best are highlighted each year when senior "Krabbas" induct their fellow seniors into the Hall of Fame. Being inducted into the Hall of Fame is an honor and a privilege because their unique contributions to the Hampton High school, class of 95 recognized by their peers. The 1995 Hall of Fame proves to be the highest point of success, by recognizing seniors who have impressed their names and faces into the minds of faculty and students to always be remembered even after graduation.

There is a wide range of categories including "Most Studious" and "Biggest Flirt." These seniors represent a small portion of the cool and keen class of 1995, and they are "Coming At Ya"!

There is nothing more precious than having babies depending on you for their very existence. You do the best you can, give them all the love you have, and hope and pray they turn out okay. Well, I've done the best I know how; now it's time to turn you loose on the world. Be the young man and young lady I know you can be, and nothing will be out of your reach. May God bless both of you.

You have done well and we are very proud of you for so many reasons. We wish you love, happiness, continued success, and God's joy. You are everything a parent could want in a daughter. You have always made us proud. You are our sunshine, our little girl. Then suddenly one morning, you were grown. We are not finished with, but we must love our children enough to let them go.

May God be with you in all you do. You are a special daughter, sister, aunt.

THE BIGGER WE GET, THE SMALLER WE THINK!

In 1903, Consolidated Bank and Trust opened its doors funded by just $9,000.00 in assets.

Since then, we've grown into one of central Virginia's leading financial backers of small and new businesses, and we intend to keep expanding our involvement with the city's developing concerns.

If you or your company need a bank with the vision to remember what it's like to start small and plan big, give Consolidated a call or visit one of our branches.

We've come a long way to help you.

Nevonda Tall and Rodney Berry wrap up a Big Wheel for the Holiday Drive.

Colophon

Volume 73 of The Krabba was published by Josten's Printing and Publishing Company of Winston-Salem, North Carolina. The sales representative was Joe Books.

The press run was 192 pages including 32 pages of color. Varied sizes of Optima, Palatino, and Helvetica Bold were used for headlines, copy, captions, and folio tabs. The paper used was 8 pounds, number one glass enamel.

The senior class and underclass portraits were taken by Segall-Majestic by Lifetouch. The candid shots throughout the book were taken by Segall-Majestic by Lifetouch and Krabba staff photographers.

The sponsors are Mrs. Mary Waters and Mrs. Gwen Parker.

The cover was designed by staff members and executed by Josten's artists.
